Man slain by father

MORLEY — Danny Boley, 26, was killed early this morning when he tried to intervene in an argument between his parents at their home in Morley.

Boley was allegedly shot once in the chest with a .22-caliber pistol by his father, Dwaine Eugene Boley, 47 when he arrived at the family home about 2 a..m. He died at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston at 2:30 a.m.

Deputy Jack Stewart of the Scott County sheriff's department said Boley and his wife had apparently been drinking at the Eagles Club on Trotter St., Sikeston before returning home where they started fighting.

Mrs. Boley telephoned her son to come to the home. He was shot shortly after arriving.

The elder Boley was arrested by the sheriff's department and taken to the Scott County jail in Benton.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed at the hospital this morning.

Boley was born March 24, 1948.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his widow, Sharon Boley; two daughters, Danna and Heidi of the home; one sister, Mrs. Anna McDonald of Houston, Tex. one brother, Kenny Boley of Morley; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Annie Boley of Dover, Ark.

The body is at Nunnelee Funeral Chapel in Sikeston where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Ford launches Japanese visit

TOKYO (AP) — Some 400 helmeted radicals clashed with armored riot police today as President Ford arrived in Japan and about half of them were arrested. Another 2,000 demonstrators shouted anti-Ford slogans.

The outbursts took place two miles from the airport where Ford landed for the briefest of welcomes and did not mar the ceremonies. Ford then took a helicopter to downtown Tokyo for an overnight rest in a heavily guarded palace.

After a 15-hour flight from Washington across the International Date Line, the first American President to visit Japan scheduled a 17-hour respite to rest up before calling on Emperor Hirohito Tuesday and opening talks with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

To minimize the chance of interference by radical leftists opposed to the President's visit, neither the emperor nor Tanaka went to the airport, and the arrival ceremony there lasted only 11 minutes.

Busloads of carefully screened Japanese waved American and Japanese flags and applauded as Ford left Air Force One and shook hands with U.S. Ambassador James Hodgson, Takeshi Yasukawa, the Japanese ambassador to the United States, and Japanese protocol officials.

Howitzers fired a 21-gun salute required by protocol, and the President waved to the crowd as he was escorted to a waiting helicopter for the 10-minute trip to the Wasaksaka Palace in downtown Tokyo.

Leftist demonstrations against the President's visit have so far been largely nonviolent. But the government threw a massive security screen around the presidential visit, with 25,000 Tokyo police on full alert and another 100,000 on standby orders in other parts of the country.

The threat of demonstrations and the uncertain political future of Prime Minister Tanaka, who is accused of using his official position to profit financially, caused some questioning of the value of Ford's trip. But at a sendoff ceremony on the White House lawn, the President said he was making his "first trip overseas as President with full confidence that this timely undertaking is in the highest national interest of the United States....

"I am deeply conscious of the need to continue the quest for peace," Ford said. "I would rather travel thousands of miles for peace than take a single step toward war."

Making a refueling stop at Anchorage's Elmendorf Air Force Base, Ford sought to balance his desire for peace with his support for strong national defenses. To his largely military audience, he said:

"I want to reassure you today that my administration ... remains aware that the best insurance for peace is the maintenance of first-class military forces ready for defense."

Mrs. Ford, recuperating from cancer surgery, did not accompany her husband. She flew with him by helicopter Sunday from the White House to Andrews Air Force Base, where the couple embraced warmly and kissed twice before several hundred well-wishers.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who was with Ford, told reporters aboard Air Force One that no decisions are expected to emerge from Ford's four days in Japan. He said the aim is to expand on current good relations and determine how the United States and Japan can "work together on a global basis."

The secretary of state said substantive matters to be discussed in Tokyo include Japan's role as a world power, stability in the Pacific, international oil problems and such bilaterial topics as trade and agricultural policy.

Station robbery nets $70-$80

Two men held up the Martin Oil Co. service station, 600 E. Malone Ave., at gunpoint and shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday and robbed the attendant of $70 to $80, according to police.

The men, described as black males with women's stockings pulled over their faces, walked into the service station about 9:15 p.m. and ordered station attendant Robert Stacy, 922 Davis Blvd., into the rest room. They then ordered him to hand over the money. One of them had a .22-caliber pistol.

Stacy told police he gave them all the bills in his pocket, totaling between $70 and $80. The men then told him to stay in the rest room while they left.

After a few seconds Stacy came out and saw the men running around the side of the building toward the State Highway Department district offices.

About 30 minutes later two men of the same description ran by the home of Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson on North Ranney Street. Patterson chased the two men and fired his gun at one of them.

Patterson said one of the two men ran into a utility pole while escaping. He said the man struck his head against the pole, but kept running.

Police surrounded the area where the men were believed to be, but the two apparently escaped.

Other thefts reported by police today included:

Chester Caswell, 405 S. Prairie St., told police he lost $190 he gave to a woman Saturday morning for safekeeping.

Caswell said he became drunk at the City Bar, 103 E. Malone Ave., and asked a woman to hold the money while he "was having a good time." The woman put Caswell in a cab about 3 a.m. Saturday and sent him home. Caswell told police he has not seen the money since.

A burglar who may fancy himself a handyman took $348 worth of items from Sikeston Paint and Dry Wall, 412 E. Center St., sometime between Wednesday and Friday.

Taken were two electric heaters worth $30 each, a T-square worth $13, three five-gallon buckets of green paint worth $25 each, two five-gallon buckets of beige paint worth $25 each and 10 white drop clothes worth $15 each.

Police said the burglar got into the building by breaking open a door on the west side of the building.

Burlgars took $54 worth of merchandise from the Quick Check store, 709 Smith St., including a six-pound stick of bologna worth about $6, cheese worth $3, boiled ham worth $10, six cartons of cigarettes worth $22, a flashlight worth $1, $5 in pennies and three five-pound bags of sugar woth $8.

The burgars broke into the building through a door.

Andrew Chapman of Benton told police that someone took a .30-.30 caliber rifle from his camping trailer while he was eating breakfast about 2:45 a.m. Saturday at the Southside Cafe on Highway 61 South.

The rifle was valued at $89.

Vetoes, lame ducks awaiting Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is returning to business with many lame ducks among its ranks, a pile of unfinished business and more trials of strength with the executive branch.

Both houses convene today, and will shortly be taking a recess for Thanksgiving.

Six veto messages from President Ford await the House. The Democratic leadership plans to attempt congressional overrides on at least the vetoes of amendments to the Freedom of Information Act and of a bill broadening the vocational rehabilitation program.

The override votes tentatively have been set for Wednesday.

The Senate Rules Committee, which did not meet its goal of completing hearings on the Rockefeller nomination last week, resumes its sessions today. The House Judiciary Committee begins its hearings on Rockefeller cn Thursday.

Leaders of both chambers say they expect to dispose of the nomination before adjourning some time in late December.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which has been wrestling with tax revision during most of the present Congress' two-year life, goes to work on a slimmed-down package of changes. Committee members are skeptical about how many tax-law amendments can be pushed through to final enactment before all pending legislation dies with this session of Congress.

The package is expected to include higher taxes on oil companies, some relief for low-income persons and perhaps inducements for saving in institutions that finance mortgages.

The Senate takes up a high priority money measure — an $8.6 billion catch-all appropriation bill to finance educational and other programs for the remainder of the fiscal year that ends June 30.

The measure includes $200,000 for transitional expenses for former President Richard M. Nixon. The House approved the figure, cutting it down from the $850,000 recommended by Ford.

For Thanksgiving

Turkeys cost less but rest of menu increases

By The Associated Press

Americans trying to fit holiday celebrations into inflation-tight budgets have at least one thing to be thankful for this year: turkey is cheaper than it was in 1973.

An Associated Press survey showed that while the cost of most of the ingredients of a Thanksgiving dinner has gone up, turkey prices have dropped by about 20 cents a pound to an average of 49 to 69 cents.

Poultry producers said the reason for the decline was an abundant supply and they complained they were losing money on their birds.

"We've been losing up to $2 per bird," said Carl Johnson, head of the Wisconsin Turkey Federation. Poultry producers said it costs about 35 cents a pound to raise a turkey. They're getting only about 28 cents a pound.

The rest of the Thanksgiving dinner is more expensive, however.

A comparison of supermarket advertisements in Montgomery County, Md., for November, 1973 and November, 1974 showed bread, used for stuffing, was up from 30 to 48 cents a loaf; fresh cranberries went from 29 to 39 cents a pound. And, if you get a headache from all the festivities, aspirin went from 59 cents per 100 to 89.

Most Americans said they'd manage a traditional dinner despite inflation, but there were exceptions.

"Usually we have company and we buy more than one meat. This year we are getting a small turkey and that's it," said Yvonne Porter of Detroit. Mrs. Porter and her husband are both out of work — she is on strike from her job at Detroit Optometric Center and he has been laid off from his post as a security guard.

"The holiday we would usually go way out," said Mrs. Porter. "Now we can just barely feed our family."

New women's page editor joins staff

The Daily Standard would like to introduce you to Jackie Schoeneman, the new women's page editor.

Miss Schoeneman is a 1974 journalism graduate of University of Missouri at Columbia. She majored in magazine with an emphasis on feature work or human interest stories.

She said it is her goal to work in small towns because she likes the life-style and is from a small town, too. Her hometown is Aplington in northeastern Iowa, where her parents farm 600 acres and have a cow-calf and grain operation.

To make the women's page the best yet, Jackie said she welcomes any suggestions of interest to women such as women's hoppies, their problems, their homes or club functions.

Linnemeyer resigns as city fire chief

Larry Linnemeyer resigned as Sikeston fire chief this morning to accept a position as an investigator for the state fire marshal's office.

Linnemeyer said his resignation will be effective immediately and he will join the fire marshal's office on Dec. 1.

He said he plans to continue to live in Sikeston and use it as a base to cover his 20-county area in Southeast Missouri.

Linnemeyer cited low pay as one reason for leaving the department. Another reason, he said, was the city's slowness in upgrading the fire department.

"I think people's safety is more important then their recreation," Linnemeyer said, referring to the 140-acre recreational complex the city is building. He has often expressed his unhappiness that the city chose to build the park complex instead of a northside fire station.

Linnemeyer joined the fire department in November 1972. He was employed by the University City fire department before coming to Sikeston.

FARM SHOP

The cluttered farm shop was a relaxing place on a stormy late autumn day. A rusty old stove raised the temperature to a comfortable level while cold rain or sleet played tic-tac against cobweb blotched windows.

After morning chores and breakfast a countryman faced a pleasant dilemma. There were always puttering jobs waiting — an evener to mend, a whiffletree to repair, a new teeth to be wittled for the bull rake.

But man cannot work all the time. On a Squaw Winter day, a man felt justified to sit in his old wicker chair by the stove and pore over the mail order catalog or catch up on farm magazines.

The farm shop wasn't a good example of housekeeping. Old, torn horse blankets and broken horse collars hung from wooden pegs; shop corners were crowded with shovels, spades, sledge hammers and crow bars. A half used bag of phosphate added its fragrance to burlap bags, kegs of nails, a pile of lumber beneath the bench and the dirt and debris on the floor.

Old-fashioned farm shops are gone. Today the shop resembles a garage with intricate machinery waiting for its winter overhaul. But there are those who remember the shop of yesteryear and the pleasant hours spent catching up on odd jobs or relaxing while solid maple and oak made cheerful music in an old stove.

AN ERA OF
SUPER— VIOLENCE

A solution is still to be found to the gathering momentum of domestic and international terrorism. Both in our own country and abroad the "new breed of terrorist" described by California Attorney General, Eveile Younger, grows bolder and more practiced at his craft.

In testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Younger said that the typical terrorist at large in America today is better educated, more resourceful and disciplined. Ominously, he is armed with a political ideology which serves to motivate him. Thus he usually has no interest in material or monetary gain. In addition, the new breed of terrorists view themselves in a historical perspective; time, they feel, is on their side. They view the revolutionary struggle as a protracted one, and they choose where and when they will act with deliberation.

Our domestic terrorists identify closely with their foreign counterparts. The exploits of the Tupamaros in Uruguay, the Palestinian radicals, and the Irish extremists serve as models. The Institute for the Study of Conflict in London has estimated (conservatively) that there are at least 86 extremist movements in the world, ranging from extreme right to extreme left. Many now involve kidnappings, but others, such as the Lod Airport massacre in Israel by the Japanese Red Army, and the more recent bombing episodes in England and the U. S. simply are designed to kill at random.

Terrorists are difficult to deal with because they generally have little fear of death and they have no religious scruples against murder. While many are passionately dedicated to a cause, such as the "liberation" of Palestine, others are simply nihilists who use revolution as a rationale for their innate feelings of aggression.

Either way, the outlook is grim. "Our nation's 200th anniversary," testified Attorney General Younger, "may mark the beginning of an era of 'super-violence' in this country."

Plans are evidently being laid for mass domestic violence in 1976. Our citizens will need to give their full support to the agencies charged with protecting the public order from those who would destroy it.

West European unity, which gained its original impetus a generation ago from the menace of the Soviet Union, might be about to get another reawakening from the same source: threatening Russian moves on Europe's eastern marches. Apostles of detente, who are determined to see only the "gradual consolidation of peace," have failed to notice that the imminent end of Josip Broz Tito's long reign heralds dangers of a sort which the Continent has not faced for decades.

The mosaic of nationalities, tongues and creeds known as Yugoslavia, which Tito has held together bymain force as he led it half-way out of the Soviet bloc, will soon be leaderless. Getting ready to move, the Soviet has sent up the customary smokescreen. Pravda is denouncing "attempts at building up tension in the Balkans, where hostile imperialist forces have long plotted their intrigues."

Needless to say, the sole intrigues involved are Russian. Moscow is pressing Romania to grant it a military corridor through which Soviet troops could pass to Bulgaria, thence to the Yugoslavia border. There they would be massed, ready to intervene when Tito goes. For Mowcow, the stakes are high. Reduction of the Titoist heresy, humiliation of Romanian independence and encirclement of tiny Albania would strengthen the Kremlin, ideologically an militarily, in its confrontation with Red China.

Our politicians, in both parties, are absorbed in getting votes. They lie awake nights thinking up new ways of spending money we haven't got to get more votes. In The Public Interest

Frequently companies and whole industries go before the bar of public opinion or before public regulatory agencies with carefully reasoned pleas for measures favorable to the needs of the companies or industries involved. Just as frequently, spokesmen for the affected industries stop short of showing how the public has the greatest interest in the preservation of strong, productive, taxpaying enterprises.

For years, as nearly everyone knows, the railroad industry of the United States--in fact transportation generally--has been adversely affected by regulatory policies that discourageed growth and competition. But, at long last, through the unified efforts of various elements of common carrier transportation, it is likely that constructive changes in public attitudes and laws will materialize. The changes, when they come, will largely have been brought through education of the public on transportation facts of life. The Association of American Railroads has issued a pamphlet aimed directly at the public. It is entitled," The Choice: A Smaller America...Or Better Transportation." The purpose of the pamphlet is to encourage support and improve the major forms of surface transport. As the pamphlet says, "this legislation isn't important only to those who send cargo -- or receive it -- on trains or trucks or barges. It's important to everyone. Better transportation will provide the foundation to allow America to grow as it should."

Transportation has made possible an unparalleled distribution of abundance in the United States. It is in the public interest, therefore, for all modes of transport to continue to be part of a strong and growing industry. This is the case that primary elements of the surface transportation industry have joined in presenting to the nation and its lawmakers.

Planning for the Future

Grim stories have depicted the nation as rapidly running out of energy resources--particularly of the fossil fuel variety. In the natural gas industry, a publication of the American Gas Association has replied to claims that natural gas producers are deliberately holding gas off the market by citing a Federal Power Commission report which indicates that 75 of the largest natural gas producers had committed more than 98 percent of their proved gas reserves for sale by late 1970. Judging by this, there could hardly be a conspiracy to jack up prices by holding supplies off the market.

Equally baseless are the parched Earth scare stories. The world and the United States still possess a rich measure of energy resources--in the ground. Authoritative studies have placed the potential supply of natural gas in the U.S. at about 1,178 trillion cubic feet. This is in addition to the current proved reserve total of 290.7 trillion cubic feet. The primary reason for a growing natural gas shortage has been lack of incentives that encourage gas producers, like oil producers, to undertake the capital risks necessary to find new reserves.

Natural gas has been one of the most rapidly growing of the energy industries, and as the release of the American Gas Association makes plain, the industry "..can make a broad contribution to our national economy and an adequate domestic natural gas supply can make specific contributions to the regional economies in our nation's major consuming areas...the total dollar investment in transmission and distribution facilities is now more than $40 billion. This is expected to double by 1990."

The gas industry, obviously, is planning for the future on the commonsense assumption that the nation's natural resource policies will encourage maximum exploration and development of the vase oil and gas reserves yet to be discovered and put to mankind's use.

The Missouri pedestrian death toll for the first ten months of the year is substantially lower than that for the comparable period in 1973.

Records of the Missouri State Highway Patrol show that 101 persons (Urban - 63, Rural - 38) were killed from January through October of this year as they walked the State's streets and highways. This is 53 fewer pedestrians than were killed during the first ten months of 1973 when 154 pedestrians (Urban - 86, Rural - 68) lost their lives in traffice.

Colonel Sam S. Smith, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, while pleased with the notable decrease in the pedestrian fatality toll, voiced some apprehension for the safety of pedestrians during the remaining weeks of the year.

"Longer hours of darkness and inclement weather during this time of the year are conditions that increase the possibility of a pedestrian being involved in a collision with a motor vehicle," Smith stated. "Drivers should take every precaution to compensate for low visibility and slippery surfaces. Pedestrians, at the same time, should also make allowances for these conditions and do everything possible to avoid being involved in an accident."

The Patrol Superintendent then pointed out some safety rules for drivers and pedestrians. Drivers: Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions. Be prepared and able to stop for a pedestrian in your traffic lane; stop before reaching the sidewalk when backing from alleys or private driveways and then proceed only when the way is clear. Pedestrians: Wear light-colored clothing when walking at night; walk to the left facing traffic where there are no sidewalks; keep packages and umbrellas from blocking your vision; and cross streets only at intersections or at designated crosswalks.

"The notable decrease in the pedestrian fatality toll so far this year is very gratifying," Smith concluded. "I urge drivers and pedestrians to continue their safe driving and walking practices, particularly in the weeks ahead when adverse weather and low visibility conditions are present."

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Petroleum is the key to meeting tomorrow's energy needs. Yet, critics have done a pretty good job of undermining public confidence in the character and sincerity of spokesmen for the oil industry. Now the public must take a close look and judge for itself whether those who speak in behalf of such things as a national energy policy and the need to expand petroleum and gas development know what they are talking about.

The top official of one of the country's largest oil companies has said, "Our operations, our practices, our motives, and even our basic value to society have been attacked. For the most part, the criticism has been negative and has been based on poor information that showed little, if any, understanding of the real situation." This oilman, in a lengthy talk, reviews the "key figures" of the energy story and the oil industry. They show there is no time to waste if the growing imbalance in supply and consumption of energy is to be remedied in the U.S. and throughout the world. He calls for "a national energy policy" that will take into account all of the many factors related to total energy supply and energy demand. He recommends six points that this policy should consider. They range from coordinating all factors relating to energy supply and consumption to acceptance of the fact that, "The availability of energy in adequate amounts and at reasonable cost is fundamental to the future well-being of all the peoples of the free world."

Many others have expressed similar views on energy and its place in the future of our country and that of all mankind. The character and sincerity of these spokesmen is evident beyond all reasonable doubt. The question is, how much longer will the public continue to be fooled by the misinformation and political quackery that seems to have made a game of hiding energy facts and discrediting the motives of energy spokesmen?

EATING OUR
SEED CROP

A strange scheme for helping the poverty stricken is revealed in a press report describing how the federal government, through the Office of Economic Opportunity, has granted $50,000 to a local community action organization for the purpose of establishing food co- ops for low- income people. According to the press report, the scheme has been opposed by local retailers "...who feel their tax dollars are being used to build up food co- ops they will have to compete with."

The retailers have a point. America has the most efficient, mass retail distribution system in the world. Goods of all kinds move through this system expeditiously and at the lowest possible prices. The largest retail organizations, chain or independent, are ruled by the same master-- competition. Every retailer is part of a distribution mechanism that is able to provide the smallest hamlet as well as the larger cities with the abundance produced by millions of U.S. farms and factories of all kinds. While politicians speak of "pockets of poverty", the fact remains that mass production- and mass distribution-- are the backbone of a national level of well- being without parallel. The industries involved in production and distribution also provide the taxes that support the manifold activities of government-- including all the social and economic programs to aid those with low incomes.

How in the world can a nation continue to pour billions upon billions of dollars into these programs if it adopts a policy of underwriting schemes that depend upon tax support and, at the same time, undermine the enterprises that pay the taxes? The answer is, it can't. Substituting handout projects for taxpaying, private enterprise without regard to the consequences is is just like eating next year's seed crop.

UNFAIR TO WHOM?

More than a year ago, an investor- owned power company, serving a sparsely settled region of the far west, felt justified in asking for a rate increase. It had had no increase since 1945. On November 23, 1970, it requested a rate adjustment from the state regulatory authority. Briefs were filed, testimony was taken and by the summer of 1971, the Public Utility Commissioner was ready to grant the necessary increase. Then, Phase I of the price-wage and rent controls was imposed. The company's impending rate increase was suspended. As a spokesman for the Public Utility Commission put it, "In other words they were told to refile after the freeze."

After waiting 25 years, the company is now waiting for a federal advisory board to decide what upward adjustments are in order. Anyone who thinks this is merely a case of unfairness to a company should stop and think again. If mindless rules prevent a power company from earning the money it must have to attract investors to expand in accordance with the requirements of customer demand and to meet the rising burden of costly pollution control devices, the public and the company's customers are the victims. Power consumers may have to endure an energy shortage. The air we breathe might not be quite as pure as it could have been.

The question of unfairness in government price and wage controls is far broader than the vision of those who see such controls as anything but a temporary and unavoidable evil.

Private Schools Deserve Notice

Inadequacies in the public school systems, together with social problems, have led increasing numbers of concerned parents to set about finding or establishing good private schools in order to give their children some kind of decent education and reasonable safety at school.

No longer is it only affluent whites who are putting their children in private schools. Middle-class and lower middle-class blacks, browns and whites are all looking for and finding better answers to the problems their children are encountering. These problems include inadequate standards of reading, composition, mathematics, and conduct.

Most public schools have become simply custodial institutions, a high percentage of whose "graduates" turn out to be functional illiterates. It seems that the more federal tax dollars and "guidelines" thrown at the problem, the worse it becomes.

One private group in Harlingen, Texas, has based its school on the fundamentals of reading, writing, and arithmetic--plus the tradition traditions of patriotism and leadership exemplified by the U.S. Marines. Appropriately, the school is named the Marine Military Academy, and it is headed by Major General George S. Bowman, Jr., U.S. Marine Corps (Ret). Schools such as this derserve the support of all concerned citizens. HLH

Ford and Highest Labor, Management Advisers' In Secret Session, Find No Solution

WASHINGTON--If you're going to be a White House watcher, a touch of the Kremlinologists' technique helps--observe who's sitting or standing alongside whom and being photographed in what position during important occasions.

Well, there was a confidential gathering of the White House Labor-Management Committee, directed by secrecy-oriented Harvard Prof. John Dunlop in the Roosevelt Room Armistice Day (Nov. 11) afternoon. Someone had left an empty chair between cigar-prone labor chief George Meany and his second-in-command, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland.Could be accidental? But it doesn't happen that way in the White House. When President Ford came in for the tightly closed door, hour-long discussion of economic problems, he steered straight for the seat between the two national labor leaders.

It was a friendly trio at that end of the table around whom sat some of the nation's top executive-suite industrial captains representing General Electric, U.S. Steel and General Motors among others. The committee earlier had met in the Treasury Department. Then it lunched with action-packed, free-marketer, open-economy secretary Bill Simon (menu strictly secret). Then, over to the White House they went.

Meany has been tough on House Speaker Carl Albert and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. Most Democrats, and their philosophical mentors such as Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, are gung ho for putting the stabilization controls on Jerry Ford's back. And the chances are they'll vote for a standby wage-price controls bill by next March or April. This would give the President the power to move--and he may in certain fields.

In turn, Mr. Ford is happy to pass the ball up the Hill. He said the other day that Meany now has his veto-proof Congress it has the responsibility to show the country what it can do.

But that did not offend Meany. He feels the same way. He'll go for wage and price controls and a "big bureaucracy" to enforce them if profits' rents, dividends, salaries, bonuses, stock options, all fees, etc., are also stabilized. This isn't exactly President Ford's thinking. But he and Meany agree that this isn't the time for controls.

So Meany, Kirkland and the President chuckled it up at the secret session during the long discussion of the economy, the nation's international position, the fiscal and monetary policies, energy conservation, the world's raw material problems and agricultural policy.

Outcome? The President and guests unanimously agreed there is a problem. How to solve it? Well, an unexpected starter in the group was a non-committee member, Dick Nixon's former economic czar George Shultz. He helped kick the props out from under the wage-price controls during his tenure in the White House and Treasury Secretary.

It was a fascinating session. They agreed time had come to get tough on energy. But that's not easy. How can this be done without rationing fuel and power? And, for example, Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons wants the highway speed regulation lifted from its present limit. That would help his 400,000 over-the-road truck drivers.

But Meany is on record for a strict 55-mile-an-hour speed limit which could diminish truckers' incomes though conserving gasoline.

There was talk of specific policies to be outlined soon by the President if voluntary efforts failed. Much of these will be limned in the State of the Union message in January. So most of the conferees wanted to be assured they would get a speech preview and the chance for input."

Strangely, there was general agreement on all sides. The government obviously will move hard on the push for more housing construction, public employment and unemployment compensation. The money already is available for 170,000 such W.P.A. type jobs. And more money will be handy for another 230,000.

Further, this year the government already has put some $19 billion into mortgage money for construction and soon will come up with more.

It would have been nice if Mine Workers Leader Arnold Miller, a committee member, had also been present. But he was across the park in a Hotel Hay Adams negotiation room heading for a national coal strike--which can knock all reckoning out of the ball park.

However, the group of strong men around the President was uniquely united--men such as Meany, Fitz, the Seafarers leader Paul Hall, U.S. Steel Heath Larry, General Electric chief executive officer Reg Jones and G.M.'s Dick Gerstenberg. Their decision: The country is in trouble. And they'll meet again on Dec. 16 for better or worse. Agreement: It will be worse. And so the secret session adjourned.

WASHINGTON--Those friendly phone calls President Ford has been making to random Americans haven't been as spontaneous as they have seemed.

When he phoned baseball slugger Al Kaline to congratulate him on his 3,000 hit, for example, the President has a memo in front of him coaching him on what to say.

Indeed, the White House has urged Cabinet members, as a side duty, to suggest people whom the President should call on the telephone. "I look forward," instructed presidential aide Warren Rustand, "to receiving at least one telephone recommendation from you every Friday."

The idea, according to Rustand's private memo to the Cabinet, is "to identify the President with different and worthy programs and events."

Rustand himself suggested the call to Kaline after the Detroit Tigers batting star batted in his way into the sports headlines on September 24,.

Explained Rustand in a memo intended for the President's eyes only:

"Al Kaline reached his goal of 3,000 baseball hits during Tigers-Oriole baseball game in Baltimore last night. He is the 12th person to pass this mark. No American Leaguer has achieved it in 39 years."

Properly impressed, President Ford telephoned Kaline in Baltimore, What the ballplayer didn't know was that Ford spoke to him from a written script. The secret script, prepared by Rustand, called for the President to say:

"1. Congratulations on your 3,000th base hit.

"2. One of the nicest things about breaking this record is that it occured in your hometown, Baltimore. However, I know your family and many friends from Michigan were with you both at the game itself and in spirit.

"3. I know you are looking forward to your retirement as a chance to spend more time with your sons (ages 17 and 13) and your family. May I say that I would like to see you continue playing the game.

"4. Congratulations, again. This puts you in an elite category among all the men who have played the game."

The President made similar calls to slugger Hank Aaron who broke Babe Ruth's home run recore; the Cleveland Indians' new manager, Frank Robinson, after he was chosen the first black manager in the major leagues and another black, Simon Gourdine, who was named deputy commissioner of the National Basketball Association.

The President has also called many non-athletes, including families struck by tragedy and government employes with extraordinary records.

Footnote: In exhorting Cabinet members to provide "input for the Presidential Telephone Call Recommendation Program," the White House sent around a sample suggestion form. This provides a blank for "the name of the person you recommend be called," another line for the "suggested date call should be placed," and a space to spell out the "purpose" of the call ("preferably one sentence; two at most").

The form also calls for "background information you feel will be helpful to the President" and talking points.. that you recommend be made during the conversation." The Cabinet officers are further instructed: "Original plus four copies are to be sent to Warren Rustand."

Explained a White House spokesman: "When Cabinet secretaries see someone achieving something in their area, they let the White House know so the President can give them a call."

World News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon predicts the Senate will vote to confirm Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president soon after Thanksgiving. The Nevada Democrat also says he expects to vote in favor of the nomination "on the basis of what I know now." He convenes the committee hearings today for the fourth and final session of the nationally televised inquiry.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz is preparing a counterattack against criticism at the World Food Conference in Rome that the Ford administration is dragging its feet on aid to hungry nations. The 11-day Rome conference ended early Sunday after the Ford administration turned down a request for an immediate boost of one milion tons in U.S. aid this year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment say the recent state legislative elections have brightened chances that five more states will ratify ERA, thus making it part of the Constitution. The Constitution requires approval by 38 states, and 33 states previously have approved the amendment. The ERA would prohibit discrimination based on sex.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The oil-rich Shah of Iran, who has become the biggest buyer of U.S. arms, is reported interested in buying some supersized C5 military transport planes. If the Shah should decide to order C5s, the production line would have to be reopened because the U.S. Air Force has completed its purchases of the planes.

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Democratic governors are seeking ways to prod the Democratic-controlled Congress into passing significant anti-inflation measures. The state executives meeting on this resort island also want to prevent renewed factional battles at the party's mini-convention next month in Kansas City. Minnesota Gov. Wendell R. Anderson, chairman of the Democratic governors, called on the party's congressional leaders to pass "significant bills that deal with inflation."

UNDATED — Americans trying to fit holiday celebrations into inflation-tight budgets have at least one thing to be thankful for this year: turkey is cheaper than it was in 1973. An Associated Press survey showed that while the cost of most of the ingredients of a Thanksgiving dinner has gone up, turkey prices have dropped by about 20 cents a pound to an average of 49 to 69 cents. Poultry producers said the reason for the decline was an abundant supply and complained they were losing money on their birds.

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Rachel Fitler, 77-year-old Main Line millionairess, says she still plans to marry her 29-year-old former chauffeur. "We're too old for puppy talk," she assured a reporter Sunday, walking near the garden of her estate in suburban Philadelphia. "Everything's the same as it was unless Mikey changes his mind," he said, referring to her fiance, 29-year-old Michael Wilson of Wales. But Miss Fitler refused to say whether a wedding date has been set. "We're just drifting," she said.

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford arrived in Japan today for the briefest of airport welcomes, then took a helicopter to downtown Tokyo for an overnight rest in a heavily guarded palace. After a 15-hour flight from Washington across the International Date Line, the first American President to visit Japan scheduled a 17-hour respite to rest up before calling on Emperor Hirohito Tuesday and opening talks with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Premier Constantine Caramanlis, who led Greece back to democracy after seven years of military dictatorship, won a resounding victory in the nation's first parliamentary election in more than a decade. Caramanlis' New Democracy party had about 55 per cent of the vote and possibly more than 200 seats in the 300-member, unicameral parliament.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli gunboats made their second attack on Lebanon in three weeks during the night, but tension on the Syrian-Israeli front eased. The Lebanese government said Israeli naval forces made two attacks on the Rashidiye refugee camp, where 30,000 Palestinians live on the southern edge of Tyre. But the Israeli military command said the target was "a terrorist departure base" south of Rashidiye. The Lebanese communique said there was no assessment of casualties.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has brought the body of her predecessor, Eva Peron, back to Argentina in hopes that this will placate some of the opponents of her government. "May this historic instant be the bond that cements the grandness of the Fatherland with mutual respect in harmonious co-existence," said the late President Juan D. Peron's third wife as she received the mahogany casket containing the remains of Peron's second wife at an airport ceremony Sunday morning. Eva Peron died of cancer in 1952 at the age of 33. A woman of enormous ambition and ability, she organized the Argentine masses behind Peron and was adored by them.

Coroner law unconstitutional

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A new state law permitting the elimination of the coroner's office and replacing it with that of medical examiner in first class counties and the city of St. Louis has been declared unconstitutional.

Circuit Judge Michael F. Godfrey, ruling on a suit filed by St. Louis Coroner Helen Taylor, said the law is unconstitutional because it incorporates more than one subject in a single act, and because the title to the bill was not sufficiently descriptive to meet requirements of the Constitution.

The state law would have replaced an elected coroner with an appointed medical examiner.

Mayor John H. Poelker had ordered the Board of Election Commissioners to place on the ballot a proposal to change from the coroner setup to the medical examiner plan in the city. Mrs. Taylor's suit was filed against members of the election board.

Godfrey prepared a writ of prohibition that would prevent the board from placing the medical examiner issue before the voters.

Elections brighten ERA chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment say the recent state legislative elections have brightened the chances that five more states will ratify ERA, thus making it part of the Constitution.

The Constitution requires approval by 38 states, and 33 states previously have approved the amendment. The ERA would prohibit discrimination based on sex.

The new optimism among ERA supporters represents a turnaround from the pessimism expressed last summer at a meeting of the National Women's Political Caucus.

Mary Brooks, ERA coordinator for the League of Women Voters, and Pat Keefer of Common Cause had told the caucus that they doubted the ERA would be approved by more than two or three more states this spring.

But the elections changed that forecast.

"I don't know of a state where we haven't picked up pro-ERA strength," said Ms. Brooks, who prefers the designation Ms.

The defeat of anti-ERA incumbents was particularly noticeable in such states as Missouri, Florida, Arizona and South Carolina, she said.

In some contests, the victors were women challenging anti-ERA office holders. In other cases, the winners were men who had the backing of the informal ERA lobby, consisting of the League, the National Women's Political Caucus, Common Cause, the National Organization for Women, the Business and Professional Women and others.

"This will have a tremendous effect on the lobbying power of the women's groups," said Ms. Brooks. "Last year we weren't taken seriously. This year we damn well are going to be."

Diane Saulter of Common Cause said pro-ERA candidates won in the overwhelming majority of races where the ERA was a central issue.

This year's elections were the first to test the political potency of the ERA issue.

"I will be amazed if Illinois, North Dakota, and Missouri don't ratify it next year," Ms. Brooks said. "North Carolina, Oklahoma and Nevada have very good chances. Florida, Indiana and Arizona are going to have some real battles but they have a chance to ratify, too."

Phyllis Schlafly, the Alton, Ill., crusader against the ERA, denied there had been any rout of her supporters from statehouses.

Fitler wedding plans still on

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Rachel Fitler, 77-year-old Main Line millionairess, says she still plans to marry her 29-year-old former chauffeur.

"We're too old for puppy talk," she assured a reporter Sunday, walking near the garden of her estate in suburban Philadelphia.

"Everything's the same as it was unless Mikey changes his mind," she said, referring to her fiance, 29-year-old Michael Wilson of Wales.

But Miss Fitler refused to say whether a wedding date has been set. "We're just drifting," she said.

Miss Fitler said she didn't mind being single — until now. "I just had a good home. But now I'm kind of lonely."

Then, her thin, aristocratic face lit up as she spoke of Wilson:

"This boy came along and he wanted it (marriage). I put all the blame on him.

"He told he before he went (to Wales) that he'd put it (an engagement announcement) in a local paper. I had no idea it would go beyond that."

Wilson, vacationing on the English Channel island of Guernsey, was quoted this week in a London newspaper as saying: "I spoke to Miss Fitler only a week ago, and everything was fine. Her only concern was that I should enjoy myself. She didn't object to the things I told reporters. As far as I know, the wedding is still on. I haven't heard anything to the contrary."

Miss Fitler said, "Mikey is an only child and has been a great deal with older people. I met his mother and father, they visited here. I think they're very clean cut."

Miss Fitler shared a family fortune, which totaled $8 million in 1931, with her niece Happy Rockefeller, wife of Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller.

She said she doesn't think she deserved the publicity she has received since her marriage plans were revealed last month.

"I'm just an ordinary person," she said, standing outside her mansion, her charcoal-grey hair pulled back severely from her face.

Hornersville man shot

GAINESVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Herschel Pace, 32, Hornersville, Mo., apparently is the first fatality of the 1974 Missouri deer hunting season, reports the highway patrol.

Pace, dead on arrival at a Mountain Home, Ark., hospital, was accidentally shot in the back at close range Sunday with a .45-caliber hand gun, the patrol said. Michael Gabbert, 27, St. Louis, was quoted by authorities as saying he had opened the cylinder of the revolver and closed it with the hammer cocked when it discharged.

What all women should ask when husband is cheating

Dear Ann Landers: When a woman wrote and asked how many times a wife should forgive a husband who cheats, you quoted the Bible--Matthew 18:21- 22. Peter asked Jesus, "How often should I forgive a brother who sins against me? Seven times?" Jesus replied, "No. Seventy times seven."

Does that mean I should forgive this rat 490 times? If so, I've got to live through 470 more affairs. I don't think I'll make it. Any advice?– No Martyr

Dear N.M.: You took me too literally, dear. I'll tell you now what I should have said when the other woman wrote. Every woman whose husband cheats should ask herself this question: "Would my life be better or worse without him?" She should then do what is best for her, because there is no blanket solution to this one.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the wife of a clergyman and have been tempted to write many times, always on the same subject. After what happened today, I decided to put it off no longer.

My husband spent several hours doing premarital counseling for this couple I will call Albert and Amy. Last night was my birthday but my husband couldn't attend the small party given by my sister because he had to be at the wedding rehearsal. This afternoon the wedding took place.

After the ceremony, the groom called my husband aside and asked, "What do I owe you?" My husband told the young man that he does not charge fees. The reply was, "How wonderful of you to be so generous. Thank you very much!" Like many others, the young man didn't realize he owed the clergyman something even though there was no set fee.

The groom and his parents are financially well off. The wedding was one of the loveliest this town has seen. Wouldn't you think the parents would know better, if the groom doesn't? Please answer in print for the benefit of ALL clergymen who have this problem.-- Their Name Is Legion

Dear Friend: Usually the groom or his best man hands the clergyman an envelope following the ceremony-- or, if there is no envelope and the groom asks, "What do I owe you?" the clergyman should have a figure in his head and not be ashamed to let it come out of his mouth. I know of no professional person who works for nothing, when the client can afford to pay, and I don't see why a clergyman should be expected to.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is in response to "No Fan Of Yours," the parent who felt your column should be removed from the newspaper because you spoke out on such subjects as homosexuality and V.D.

I'm a boy, almost 16. I've read your column since I was nine years old. My parents never told me one thing about sex or anything connected with it. It was from reading your column that I learned most of what I know.

I want to thank you, Ann, for helping me (and thousands of other kids) to grow up to be more mature and responsible. God bless you. May you continue to do your good work for many years to come.-- Joe G.

Dear Joe: Thank you for one of the nicest letters I have ever received. I plan to keep on doing what I'm doing until my typewriter or I fall apart– whichever comes first.

Confidential to A Worry Wart Who Needs To Get It All Together: A big worry will drive out the small ones. And seeing as how there is always a still bigger worry coming along (you can count on it), tell yourself to be thankful for the small worry you now have and count your blessings.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

FOUR TO FIVE BATHS A DAY CAN REDUCE DEODORANT NEED

Deodorants would not be needed, says a leader in the field, if one could take a bath every four to six hours.

Soap and water, one of the first deodorants, is still highly effective, but the problem is that for the most part it doesn't last long enough.

Controlled tests of feminine deodorant by an independent testing laboratory showed body odor apparent after six hours among those women in the tests who used only soap and water, while none was detected at the end of the 12-hour test among those who had used soap and water plus the deodorant.

'Lilias, Yoga and You'

NEW YORK (AP) — I used to think yoga devotees only were health buffs who spend half their lives wrapping their legs around their necks. Not any more. Lilias Folan has set me straight, so to speak.

And she knows whereof she speaks. She teaches yoga on her "Lilias, Yoga and You" series that the Public Broadcasting Service airs three times a week for the 124 public TVB stations now carrying it.

First of all, she said as it assumed the classic interview position, a tuned-up body is by no means the sole benefit of yoga exercise; it's equally beneficial to one's spiritual and mental well-being.

"I'd define yoga as the art of living," said Mrs. Folan, a charming, ra en-haired woman whose only apparent flaw is that she makes one feel guilty his only exercises are mulling and brooding.

"It gives you the tools to cope with life and its challenges," she continued. "And the exercises are a marvelous springboard for self-knowledge."

Mrs. Folan said she had been undergoing therapy for emotional problems when she happened to read a book on yoga about 12 years ago.

While she now considers the book superficial, she said it changed her life by helping her realize yoga's aims aren't so much body tone as hey are peace of mind, higher energy levels and release of tensions.

She said she took up the teaching of yoga after only a year's study, mainly because her first teacher was so bad she felt she could do the job far better.

Mrs. Folan, who's married to a business executive and is the mother of two boys, still was teaching when the family moved from Connecticut to Cincinnati, Ohio, about seven years ago.

Two years later, after a number of guest shots on local commercial TV as a yoga expert, she said she proposed the idea of a regular yoga series to public TV station WCET in Cincinnati.

Station officials liked the idea, gave it a try and it's been on ever since, although this is the first season "Lilias, Yoga and You" has been offered nationally by PBS.

'Musical dreams' come true on Christmas day

Many Americans harbor a secret wish — the desire to play a musical instrument. For many of these daydreamers, this wish can come true this Christmas.

Under hundreds of evergreens this year will be pear-shaped packages containing a guitar, banjo, ukulele or even a mandolin. Fretted instruments are among the most popular gifts for teens as well as grown-ups, and are second only to keyboard in the number of amateur participants.

According to the Guitar and Accessory Manufacturers Association, there are more than 7,000,000 Americans plucking away regularly on a guitar or one of its musical relatives. And its appeal transcends all age levels and musical abilities.

Unlike other categories of musical instruments, the guitar and its kin are relatively easy to learn to play. If your ear is keen you may be able to pick out a turn right away. With a lesson or two in a group it's easy to accompany a family caroling session.

Fretted strings have the added advantage of being social as well as private instruments, that is, you can play them in a group or for a group, and enjoy them just as much when you're playing by and for yourself.

Music is a present that brings enjoyment to both the recipient and the giver.

Project pins given to 4-H club members

RISCO — Pins and membership certificates were presented Nov. 11 to each 4-H member who had completed this year's project requirements during the annual achievement program of Risco-New Hope 4-H Club.

The pins and certificates were presented by Mrs. Pansy Crosby, county youth assistant, during the annual achievement program of the Risco New Hope 4-H Club held in the community room of Farmers State Bank.

Sherri Eakens, club secretary, summarized the 1974 accomplishments of the group and Mrs. Crosby showed color slides of activities of the members during the year.

Nancy Cummins, club president, displayed her 4-H scrapbook which she has kept up-to-date for nine years, ad instructed the group on keeping their individual activity records for a later use on standard report forms.

Premium checks totaling $89 were presented to members for exhibits they sent to the Southeast Missouri Fair at Cape Girardeau, held in September.

The group planned their annual visit to the Bean Nursing Home near Gideon where they will present a pre-Christmas program.

Members will meet at 3:30 p.m. Dec. 18 at the home of their community leader, Mrs. Betty Cummins.

The annual club Christmas party has been scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 21 at the community room of Farmers State Bank. White elephant gifts will be exchanged.

Twenty-six members and guests attended the program.

ONE'S BETTER THAN TWO

Perfume authorities advise that one should never use two fragrances together. And we can take this one step further, according to chemists who create products that eliminate body odors. They point out that soap- and- water bathing should precede use of any deodorant.

Otherwise, when normal bacteria on the human body break down and produce odor and there's an attempt to cover it with a fragrance, the result is an unpleasant combination. Today millions of women in the U.S. are enjoying a feminine spray deodorant because of its ability to absorb odor and impart a slight fragrance.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I used to get locked out of the house a lot and it was sorta fun.

Kids would run in and out of the garage with ladders, dogs would climb on the roof and bark, neighbors would stop by with coffee and glass cutters . . . and all things considered it was often the high spot of my week.

Then one day my husband put down his paper and said, "Did you ever hear the old joke about if you want your garbage picked up, just leave it on the back seat of your car, lock the door, and it'll be stolen in five minutes?"

"That's funny!" I roared.

"It's no longer funny," he continued. "Every hour of every day is crime time. Watch your coat! Lock your car! Know your meter reader! Why I read in the paper the other day where a man had his tires stolen while he was attending a funeral. What kind of a person would do a thing like that?"

"The same kind who would steal a woman's purse off the hook of a restroom door when she is fighting a body suit and panty hose."

"Exactly," he said. "We are getting dead bolt locks on every door in this house."

"What are dead bolt locks?"

"They make you safe conscious," he said. "To lock a door from either the inside or the outside, you must have a key. We are all going to get into the habit of locking the door when we come in and locking it when we go out."

The first morning, I counted the four clicks. Now all I had to do to leave was to find my keys and unlock the door.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IT IS LIKE TO BE LOCKED IN YOUR OWN HOUSE?

I could hear sounds from the street but could not make myself heard. The ugly yellow wallpaper closed in about me. The refrigerator seemed to hum, "Clean me. Clean me." I called my husband and told him I needed him now. By noon it would be too late. He put me on hold.

My doorbell rang and my spirits quickened. Jumping up and down and trying to look through the peephole my husband had put in at his eye level (8 inches taller than my projected growth), I saw a distorted little Girl Scout about two inches tall and screamed, "Help me. I'm a prisoner in a lemon-scented house." She didn't bother to shut the gate as she ran.

Knowing the dog's capacity for control was no longer than 3:30 p.m., I finally unscrewed a storm window and crawled out the bedroom window. Sitting on the roof breathing fresh air, a neighbor yelled, "You all right?"

It's remarks like that that prompt people to get dead bolt locks.

Seven women form homemakers club

WILSON CITY — A group of seven homemakers have formed a new club in Wilson City, according to an announcement by Mrs. Johnnie Mae Davis, coordinating assistant of the Missouri University Extension Division.

The club, formed in late August and named the Wilson City Homemakers Club, is a group of homemakers who are receiving information from the Missouri University Extension Division.

Although the group is not an extension club as yet, Mrs. Davis has arranged for the ladies to attend the training sessions with the professional extension staff in the areas of housing, resource management, and clothing.

Club members who have attended these sessions include Mrs. Catherine Coopewood, Mrs. Nona Lane, and Mrs. Earline Crawford all of Wilson City.

A recent project of the club was a Halloween Party for the youngsters of Wilson City held Oct. 31 at the Wilson City Community Building.

More than 120 children and adults attended the party. The residents of Wilson City furnished the funds.

Children at the party enjoyed various types of refreshments. There was also a costume contest with prizes, as well as games and music.

Anyone in the Wilson City or Wyatt area who wishes information on the homemakers club may contact Mrs. Davis.

On Sept. 2, 1878 the first woman employed as a telephone "operator" — Miss Emma Nutt — took over the switchboard at the Telephone Dispatch Company in Boston. Before Miss Nutt's tenure, young men served as operators but their rudeness to telephone subscribers

Dr. Lamb

Suddenly husband becomes impotent

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 56 and appears to be in good health. He is active physically and likes to hunt and fish. He is 5-foot-11 and weighs 175 pounds.

We have always had a good marriage and have two daughters and one son, all grown and away from home. Now all at once he isn't able to have sex anymore. He tries but nothing happens, no response at all. What could be the problem?

Do you suppose this means he has been having an affair with another woman? Or, does it mean he doesn't really care for me anymore? He is still loving and tries to make it up to me in other ways, but our sex life is non-existent.

I've tried to get him to see a doctor, but he says he feels fine and doesn't want to. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Impotence is a symptom not a diagnosis. Of course, he should see a doctor and find out what the symptom means.

Many men are afraid to see a doctor about any problems related to sexual function. They seem to think this is too great a shame to share with someone else. So they suffer, often needlessly, in silence. So do their wives, many voicing or thinking the thoughts you express.

I can't include all the causes of impotence here, but you can write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on impotence. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

Impotence is often psychological. It may be related to factors the person is totally unaware of. It often requires professional help to solve these problems. Sometimes the whole thing is related to self-confidence. A failure, even after an evening of too many cocktails, will be overemphasized and fear of failure takes over. When the man's confidence is restored, sometimes even with a useless medicine he has faith in, his capacity may return as if by magic.

In other instances impotence is an indication of illness. It can be a sign of unrecognized diabetes. In these problems the diabetes affects the nerves to the sexual organs and the normal mechanisms no longer work. Early control of diabetes probably helps to prevent this complication.

There are now techniques, some experimental and others fairly well accepted, where selected patients can have a flexible splint implanted which helps a great deal for impotence from nerve involvement in diabetes or after surgery. They have no place in treatment of impotence from psychological causes.

Impotence can be a symptom of circulation problems to the pelvic area. A careful examination of the circulation may demonstrate the cause. Some types of surgery in selected patients will relieve the problems.

A small number of problems are related to decreased output of male hormone. This usually involves a somewhat older man. Even so, about half of men 75 years or older are still potent, and there are medical records of men well over 100 who have remained completely potent in all respects.

Encourage your husband to see a doctor. He is not at all unusual, and he needs to find out what the problem is and get the proper help.

What's the law?

The case of the presidential pardon

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

In computing his income for tax purposes each year, Barry developed a system. He included his full income for only those months that had an "x" in their spelling and, for the remaining months, he cheated a little. The result? After years of government examination, he was convicted of attemped income-tax evasion.

On the day of sentencing, Barry pleaded for leniency.

"I've already suffered plenty," he told the judge. "During the years of investigation, I didn't sleep a wink. Considering that I'm a good husband, father and a skillful citizen, I'm entitled to a break."

"He's skillful all right," responded the government attorney. "For years he had us going around in circles trying to unravel his income- tax returns. That doesn't entitle him to a break. That entitles him to a jail cell."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you be lenient with skillful Barry?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! Reflecting upon President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, the judge held that the principle of equai justice required that Barry's sentence be suspended. In so holding, the judge noted that Barry was talented, gainfully employed, earnest in the discharge of his family obligations and that he had suffered terribly in the intervening years of investigation, uncertainty, legitimate efforts to avoid indictment and the tortured wait for the day of sentence.

Art work to be exhibited

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- Art work by students and faculty members is being featured in exhibits at Southeast Missouri State University during November.

On exhibition through Saturday in the Art-Home Economics Building will be portraits done by students in a workshop last summer and works in a variety of media by students in design, crafts, weaving, jewelry and ceramics classes.

Paintings by Mrs. 'Edda Albrecht, an award-winning Cape Girardeau artist, are also on display. Born in Wittenberg, Germany, Mrs. Albrecht studied at the Alliance Francaise in Brussels, Belgium. She attended graduate classes at Southeast Missouri State last summer.

On display through Dec. 9 will be about 25 works by various university faculty members. The exhibit, featuring a variety of styles and media, may be viewed in Kent Library.

Firemen called to mobile home

Firemen were called at 6:46 a.m. today to a mobile home occupied by Shirley Holyfield, 203 Kinder St., when an electric socket caught fire.

The fire was extinguished with only minor damage.

At 1:18 p.m. Sunday firemen were called to the Vernon Morris home, 307 N. Ingram St., when lint in the dryer caught fire. There was no damage.

Theodore Roosevelt, on Nov. 12, 1955, was among the first five men to be enshrined in the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

Buddhism to be explained

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- A St. Louis lecturer will explain Nichiren Shoshu Buddhism Thursday night at Southeast Missouri State University.

Paul A. Bell, a lay leader in this particular branch of Buddhism, will appear at 7 p.m. in Rose Theatre at the Language Arts Building. The speaking engagement is sponsored by the university's cultural programs committee in cooperation with the philosophy faculty.

Nichiren Shoshu Buddhism was founded in Japan in the 13th century by a religious reformer who rejected the teachings of the established Buddhist sects.

Today, according to Dr. William D. Seidensticker, assistant professor of philosophy at Southeast Missouri State, it is an international religious movement with a growing following in the United States.

The program is free and open to the public.

Nude dancer proves herself as actress

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is happy to be home again after a three-week hospitalization, staff aide Diane Sawyer says. But she describes the former president as pale and very weak,

"I haven't talked to anyone who has seen him this weekend, but I'm sure he's still spending most of the day in bed," Miss Sawyer said Sunday. "And I know he's happy to be out of the hospital and back among his own things."

Nixon, 61, was released Thursday from Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center, where he underwent surgery to prevent a blood clot in his left leg from moving to his lungs or heart. Doctors still are watching blood tests to see if Nixon is responding properly to oral anticoagulation drugs being administered for his phlebitis condition.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says the high ransom sums being demanded in the string of kidnapings in Italy "become cursed in the bandit's hands."

In an address to a Sunday crowd at St. Peter's Square, the Pope deplored what he called the "current fearful string" of such kidnapings. He noted the families affected "frequently do not have the sums asked in the iniquitous ransom."

BOSTON (AP) — Annabel Battistella has parlayed the Tidal Basin incident into a more lucrative career as a stripper.

The 38-year-old Argentinian, who police pulled out of the Tidal Basin in Washington after she jumped out of a car carrying Rep. Wilbur Mills, opens tonight at Boston's Pilgrim Theatre under her stage name, Fanne Fox.

She'll be making $3,500 a week. And she'll be billed as "The Washington Tidal Basin Bombsheil."

NEW YORK (AP) — It cost the city of New York $750,000 to protect Yasir Arafat during his stay here last week, says Mayor Abraham D. Beame.

Beame said Sunday the costs included $696,592 for salaries and overtime payments to more than 1,000 police officers. They were taken from precincts to protect the Palestine Liberation Officer leader when he was here last week to address the United Nations.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When California Gov. Ronald Reagan leaves office in January, he's returning to the career in which he started — broadcasting.

Reagan's press secretary said Sunday the 63-year-old Reagan will tape five five-minute commentaries weekly for a series called "The American Viewpoint."

Reagan, who made his name as an actor, got his start in show business in the 1930s as a radio sports announcer for station WHO in Des Moines, Iowa.

The dessert was originally the remains of a previous meal. In ancient times, dessert was brought out and was food served earlier. It was done as a way to prolong banquets.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What would happen if Marilyn Monroe came into the film world today?

The question was put to a Hollywood high lama — he was smoking one of those sunny cigarettes — who handed down his decision from a mountain-top:

"Today Marilyn Monroe would be denounced by Gloria Steinem for perpetuating sexual sterotypes, picketed by the gays for unfair competition and relegated to the role of serving beer to Robert Redford and Paul Newman as they planned their next caper."

Times and fashions change, and the sex symbol seems to have disappeared from the film scene.

Where does that leave a gorgeous female like Valerie Perrine? "The only parts for women in films nowadays are whores and hookers," she sighs.

Valerie is stunning enough to be a Las Vegas nude dancer. And she was. She changed careers whan an agent asked her two questions: "Have you ever acted? Do you think you can act?"

Her answers were no and yes, in that order. A meeting with director George Roy Hill brought her the role of Montana Wildhack, the sexpot movie star in the fantasy sequence of "Slaughterhouse 5."

Next she played an auto race track groupie in "The Last American Hero." She gives a remarkable performance in "Lenny" as the late comedian Lenny Bruce's stripper wife. It is the kind that seems to make an Academy nomination imperative.

Valerie Perrine is "26 or 27, somehwere around there," blonde and perfectly proportioned. She was born in Galveston, Tex., spent her early years in Japan, where her father was stationed as an Army officer. She attended convent school in Yokahama.

She studied psychology for a year at the University of Arizona, dropping out after an attack of mononucleosis. Then she decided to study a different kind of psychology, in Las Vegas.

"Living in Scottsdale, (Ariz.) was so boring," she remarked. "I had to break out of there, and Las Vegas seemed like a good change of pace. My Dad disowned me. Mother was more understanding."

"Somebody asked me that the other day — such a dumb question," She said. "How did I feel? I didn't feel anything at all. It just becomes part of the job. My own mother saw the show and said, 'you know, Valerie, there's so much happening on the stage that I didn't notice you had no clothes on."

Clothed or not, Valerie proves herself an accomplished actress in "Lenny," portraying the downward slide of girl addicted to men and dope. Her problem is what to do next.

On this date:

In 1626, St. Peter's Basilica in Rome was consecrated by Pope Urban VIII.

In 1805, 30 women met at the home of a Wiscasset, Me., woman and organized what is believed to be the first woman's club in the United States.

In 1883, the United States adopted standard time.

In 1935, economic sanctions were imposed against Italy because of its invasion of Ethiopia.

In 1936, the Fascist governments of Germany and Italy recognized the Franco regime in Spain.

Ten years ago: The Pentagon announced plans to close 95 military bases and installations, including some naval shipyards.

Five years ago: Joseph Kennedy died at his Cape Cod home after a long illness. He was 81.

One year ago: Ten oil-producing Arab nations relaxed their petroleum cutbacks to most of Europe, but kept them for the Netherlands and the United States.

Today's birthdays. Philadelphia orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy is 75. Pollster George Gallup is 73.

Thought for today: Men are what their mothers made them — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American writer, 1803-1882.

First Cross

In 1856 England's Queen Victoria ordered the first Victoria Cross to be made from Russian cannon captured in the battle of Sevastopol during the Crimean War. The decoration, depicting the British Crown surmounted by a lion on a Maltese Cross, was designed by Prince Albert, the Queen's Consort.

Bow hunting success

The 13th wasn't an unlucky day for Lanore Godsey, who proudly displays her prize buck taken at the Mingo Wildlife refuge while archery hunting with a 41 pound draw bow last week. The Missouri firearms season opened Saturday and many Southeast Missouri hunters will be bringing back the prizes.

Big Red Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sometimes a little fear can be a good thing. At least it was Sunday for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals almost buried Philadelphia quarterback Roman Gabriel in the artifical turf at Veterans Stadium as they beat the Eagles 13-3, and held on to first place in the National Football League's National Conference Eastern Division.

When it was over, St. Louis Coach Don Coryell explained that the Cardinals' success against the 13-year veteran Gabriel probably was because they were so afraid of him.

"Maybe we were frightened a little about Gabriel's potential as a passer and their outstanding receivers," Coryell said without a trace of a smile. "Maybe that made us play a little bit harder and better."

Whatever the reason, the Cardinals' defense sacked Gabriel nine times. And when they didn't catch up with him, they hurried his delivery so much that his passes were ineffective.

"It was the defense's day," said Coryell in somewhat of an understatement. "The linemen put on a tremendous rush and the linebackers played exceptionally well."

On a day when the usually explosive St. Louis offense was having troubles of its own, the defense held Philadelphia's running game to 71 yards. Gabriel managed to complete 18 of 30 passes for 170 yards, but many of them were short, harmless connections.

The battered and bruised Gabriel told it like it was.

"Lots of times in the second half I never had a chance to look up and release the ball," he said.

Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack, shattered by his team's fifth consecutive defeat and sixth against four wins, was asked if anything was wrong with Gabriel's arm.

"No, he just didn't get a chance to use it that well," McCormack responded. "I have to appologize to Gabe for the number of sacks he had."

Gabriel didn't want any apology from the coaching staff. The 215-pound quarterback put the blame where it belonged.

"If we were rushed, it's because we have not been executing what has been given us by the coaching staff," he said.

The game wasn't exactly an artistic success on offense by either team. St. Louis gained only 108 yards passing as the Eagles held the league's top passer, Jim Hart, to 10 of 23. The Cardinals did a little better rushing, getting 188 yards.

St. Louis took a 7-0 lead in the first period and never trailed in beating Philadelphia for the second time this season. Hart sneaked into the end zone from one yard out at the end of a six-play, 72-yard march. The Eagles sliced it to 7-3 in the third period on Tom Dempsey's 48-yard field goal, but Jim Bakken kicked 28 and 30-yarders for six more Cardinals' points in the final period.

Philadelphia had a chance to turn the tide in the third period when St. Louis' Terry Metcalf fumbled and the Eagles recovered at the Cardinals' 45.

Gabriel completed a 10-yard pass to Harold Carmichael, but the big wide receiver fumbled the ball back to St. Louis.

Defensive tackle Bob Rowe described his unit's performance as the best for a St. Louis front four since 1971, when it got 11 sacks against Atlanta.

Raiders hold on

POPLAR BLUFF — Coach Gene Bess began his fifth season as head coach of the Three Rivers Raiders Saturday night when his cagers opened their 1974-75 campaign at PBHS gym with a 108-104 victory over Southern Baptist of Walnut Ridge, Ark.

A late game rally by the Southerners almost spoiled the big occasion. TRCC opened up a 53-29 lead in the first half, but had to battle for their lives through the final 10 minutes of play.

TRCC goes toMeramec Tuesday night to tipoff its conference schedule and make a big for a sixth straight league title.

Fouls put the Raiders into early trouble and Southern took advantage of the situation in the second half.

Alvin Pierce and Larry Marshall scored 16 points each to lead the Raiders 11 player offensive show, which included 14 markers each by Fred Rowe and Jerry Kellum and 12 points from Troy Foots.

Southern was paced by the 18 point performances of Dewayne Armour and Wendall Smith. Brady Rapp added 16 and Terry Gibson and Tom Auston chipped in with 14 each to round out the Baptists double figure scoring.

Chargers sweep title

CLARKTON -- Delta C-7 grabbed a 49-45 win over Senath Saturday night to capture first place in the Clarkton B-Team Tournament. Third place title went to the Holcomb Hornets when they downed Campbell 77-71.

In the championship game, the difference proved to be the shooting at the foul line. While both teams shot for 22 points from the field, Delta C-7 picked up the advantage at the line dumping in five to the Lions one.

Senath fell short of the target during first quarter play, and the chargers went ahead 14-8. But as time wore on, the Senath players began to find their aim, doubling their first quarter points during the second period. However, their effort stopped short of their mark, as the Chargers remained consistent to take a 28-24 lead into the locker room.

Offensive play was slowed somewhat after the half and by the end of the third quarter both teams had hit for eight markers each. The final period showed much the same. The score seesawed, but the Lions could not slip by Delta C-7 and had to settle for second place.

George Riley and Alex Rose shared top scoring honors for the winning team, both dumping in 15 points. High scorer for Senath was Kitchens with 14.

Holcomb pulled off a hot fourth quarter rally to topple the Camels to take third place win in the tourney. Campbell took the lead early in the game holding a four point edge. Holcomb kept pace with the Camels as both teams marked up 20 points during the second quarter and the Hornets left the half, leading from their first quarter soering, 38-34.

It was a battle during the third period as the Honrets tried to move in on Campbell. Their efforts gained them only a single point.

The final quarter told the story as Campbell's defensive tactics could not hold up as Holcomb burned the nets for 25 points to the Camels' 16.

Lyndel Burr had a big night for the Hornets, hitting for 36 markers, over half of Holcomb's final score. Mike Scott backed him up with 22 points. High man for the Camels was Art York who earned 23 points to his credit with Terry Parrent following with 18.

Monday leads Royals

BROSELY — In Friday night basketball play, Twin Rivers downed Richland 75-64.

First quarter scoring remained tight as both teams battled for the edge, but it was the Royals who came up with the lead at the start of the second period, 17-14. The Rebels remained close atthe heels of Twin Rivers but could not take over and found themselves trailing at the half, 32-27.

Second half action saw Twin Rivers play steady ball to carry the slight edge to the win. Kerry Mondy led the Royals in scoring with 21 markers. Richland's Clay dumped in 18.

Twin Rivers also took the J.V. win over the Rebels, 61-55. Mark Lance was high man for the home team with 17 points, and Patterson earned the honors for Richland scoring 19.

Memphis host World Bowl

Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS (AP) — Team owners and potential franchise investors in the financially troubled World Football League, their ranks torn by confusion over the World Bowl playoffs, will hold a crucial summit conference in Memphis later this week.

"Essentially, the purpose of the meetings will be to structure the league for 1975," said John F. Bassett, principal owner of the Memphis Southmen and chairman of the WFL's executive committee. Bassett said franchise holders will meet Friday and prospective owners will meet Saturday.

"It (the league) is going to be run by responsible business and football people," vowed the Canadian millioniare, who says he has invested $600,000 of his money to prevent the collapse of weaker WFL teams.

He said potential franchise buyers will come from San Antonio, Louisville, Jacksonville, Tulsa, Portland (Ore.), Charlotte, N.C., Chicago and possibly Montreal and Toronto.

Confirmation of the summit meeting by WFL officials followed a weekend of conflicting statements and acrimonious debate over the number of teams eligible for the WFL playoffs. A conference call between owners and league officials Sunday seemed to settle the the controversy, with six playoff teams being decided upon.

The latest plan calls for the Western Division champion Southern California Sun, 13-7, to host the Hawaiians, 9-11, Wednesday night and the Eastern Division champion Florida Blazers, 14-6, to host the Philadelphia Bell, 9-11, Thursday night.

The Central Division champion Memphis Southmen, 17-3, and the Birmingham Americans, 15-5, will have byes.

Birmingham will play the Sun-Hawaiian winner on Nov. 27 at an as yet unannounced location. Memphis will play the winner of the Florida-Philadelphia game at Memphis on Nov. 29 on national television.

Terry Lee, a spokesman for the Memphis team, said if the Southmen qualify, the World Bowl will be held at Memphis on Dec. 5.

The playoffs were originally to have included four teams. Then, last week, WFL officials said eight teams were to take part in the playoffs.

Saturday, Bassett and WFL executive director Don Regan made the surprise announcement that the playoff format had been changed and only three teams would participate. Several owners, angry that their teams had been excluded, issued counter-statements and asked for an emergency conference call. During the conference, Bassett and Regan were overruled and the six-team playoff format was substituted.

Inflation? You ain't seen nothing yet

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Ford and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns have finally done it. They've tightened the cinches so tightly that capital goods orders — the last prop for the economy and the one hope for easing shortages and putting a damper on prices — appear to be in for a setback. It is clear we are in a recession likely to get considerably worse before it gets better.

Some of Mr. Ford's advisers are known to believe that a recession is preferrable to inflation. But the policy they are promoting, it appears, will give us the worst of both worlds.

Economists predict 7 per cent unemployment and a rough row to hoe for most of us in the months just ahead. The situation is expected to be so bad by January that pressure will be great for Congress to vote major sums for emergency public service jobs, extended unemployment payments and for a variety of programs aimed at providing jobs and getting housing and other lagging industries going again.

If analysts have the election winners pegged correctly, the Congress which takes office in January will have more men and women sold on the necessity of heavier domestic government spending and even more leery of tax boosts and cuts in the federal budget. But whether they are big-government spenders or cut-the-spending conservatives by nature, the temptation to spend us out of the recession will be great indeed.

Though the worsening recession will likely pull inflation down a few percentage points, the relief will not be great and probably will not last for long if my economist contacts are correct.

The expected slug of congressional spending bills — a shattering $310 billion budget and a stagerring deficit — all calculated to get the country moving, will most assuredly drive inflation up again as industry competes for the scarce materials needed to meet rising demand.

Because of the tight reins Messrs. Ford, Nixon and Burns have put on the economy these past months, the shortages will be greater and the inflationary pressures thus more compelling than if the producers and processors of the basic raw materials and components had been permitted to expand as they had planned.

The renewed vigor of this inflation will bring strong pressure in the Senate and House of Representatives for price controls. Of course, past experience would seem to indicate controls work only for short periods and are accompanied by distortions in production which drive prices to even greater heights when the controls are lifted.

An inflation caused by scarcities can be cured in the long run only by upping production in key industries and on the farms. But controls, if successful, usually hold down production in the essentials and encourage increased output of offbeat and specialty items, where profit margins are greater. Shortages are thereby intensified and the upward pressure on prices increased.

Recessions mercifully have a way of curing themselves eventually — though sometimes at terrible cost, a cost sometimes magnified by the curious solutions governments sometimes attempt. The possibility seen by some economists here is that the tide will turn before the end of 1975. That recovery, when it comes, will be accompanied by a resurgent inflation greater than we have today. In fact, there are men in the economic community who are convinced we are not likely in this decade to see inflation drop below 5 to 6 per cent a year at best.

Turkey had no alternative

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. O. R. Turkkan of New York City, former psychology instructor at Columbia University in New York City and author of "One America," spoke at high schools in the Bootheel following a tour last summer in Cyprus. He was in Cyprus when the conflict broke out between the Greeks and Turks. While visiting in Sikeston, he wrote this article which gives his impressions of the situation. Dr. Turkkan is now leaving for the Mid-East and will report on his visit there in a future article.)

by DR. O. R. TURKKAN

I was in Turkey when the Cyprus "war" exploded. Now, as I'm touring parts of the United States lecturing (not on "Cyprus", but on pollution problems in the United States), I'm often asked about the Cyprus problem.

"Well," I start, scratcing my head, "it's difficult not to sound biased. Turkey had no other alternative after the July coup of the Greek extremists but to land forces in Cyprus. Turkey was one of the three guarantors of the Cyprus Republic's independent status; the coup that toppled President Makarios was led by the fanatic Greek leader Sampson, bent on dissolving the republic and uniting the island with Greece. Turkey, by treaty agreement, had the right to interfere."

That's an easy beginning. It gets harder when you look at what happened afterwards. In July, nearly everyone admitted Turkey's right. After a three-day war, Turkish troops had occupied a couple of towns in Northern Cyprus and the "Enosis" leader Sampson had resigned. The Greek dictatorship in Athens had also collapsed and a civilian government had come to power. The United Nations then called on Turkey to stop the military action and to sit down for talks with the new Greek and Cypiot governments (Great Britain, the third guarantor, was to be there, also; the Soviet Union, not a party by any stretch of the imagination, kept insisting that she should also participate in the peace talks. The "socialist" Turkish Prime Minister Ecevit gave Moscow a diplomatic rebuff.)

When Turkish government accepted a conditional truce, there was a big disappointment in Turkey. To understand the feeling, one had to witness the incredible explosion of joy and excitement among Turks when the war had started.

Bickering political parties buried their hatchet; the press, fiercely independent, began to talk with one voice; volunteers crowded draft offices, and a cab driver told me that for years he was a draft evader but that very morning he had reported to his draft center asking to be sent to Cyprus.

Why such zeal and excitement?

For one thing, Turks feel bitter about losing the Aegean islands and Cyprus, which was Turkish for over four centuries. They had turned over Cyprus to the custody of Britain to get her help against the Russians in 1876. Cyprus then had a majority of Turkish population.

When Britain gobbled up the island for good during World War I, Turkey was in no position to stop her. Many Turks in Cyprus chose to migrate and the Turkish percentage in the island dwindled to about 18 per cent, through 30 per cent of the land still belonged to them.

Then came 1960, with Great Britain bowing out -- except for a base in southern Cyprus. Turkey and Greece both claimed the island and war was averted by a 1960 treaty that gave birth to an independent Cyprus Republic.

However, Turkey put a condition on agreeing to this birth: the Turkish minority in the new republic would have equal rights and their rights would be protected by three guarantor states -- Turkey, Greece and Great Britain. There would be no union with Greece and no union with Turkey.

Turks claim that the Greek president of the Republic of Cyprus, Archibishop Markarios, violated this agreement before even the ink was dry. Turks were given shadow titles in government and had no voice whatsoever.

In 1964, a dark day Turks don't forget, the Greeks launched an island-wide massacre of the Turkish population, and grisly photographs of a Turkish mother and her three children killed in a bathtub appeared in all Turkish newspapers. There was a big revulson in Turkey, and the government loaded troops on carriers to land in Cyprus to protect the Turkish population.

It is then that President Lyndon Johnson, alarmed at the possibility of war between two United States NATO allies -- Turkey and Greece -- sent a strong letter to Premier Inonu of Turkey. This confidential letter leaked to the press and triggered instant anti-American feelings in Turkey--amazing, because until then Turks were the staunchest friends of America and the first to send troops to Korea.

The Johnson letter threatened the use of the Sixth Fleet if Ankara went ahead with her invasion. Frustrated, Turkey stopped cold, but hot with resentment and worry about the fate of their ethnic brothers on the island.

In 1967, there was another Greek provocation, and this time the Turkish air force attacked Cyprus, only to be stopped again before it could get results.

Just before this last Cyprus crisis, the Greek junta in Athens managed to stir Turkish anger again. The junta leaders proclaimed the Aegean Sea wholly Greek waters and wanted Turks to stay away from offshore oil explorations in the area.

It so happens that Turkey has many islands of her own in the Aegean, with the coastal seabeds of Anatolia extending over the disputed area; so Ankara immediately armed a survey vessel and sent it to the Aegean under the protection of a warship.

During that crisis, I was in Istanbul and I happened to listen to a seminar conducted by many professors of the political science school at Ankara.

One of them, whose former students now occupy top positions in the Turkish foreign service, made a speech remarking that Greece, since her birth in the 19th century, had always expanded at the expense of Turkey. He also reminded how Greeks had invaded Turkey during the early 1920s and tried to grab Turkish lands -- until they were defeated by Ataturk.

The professor's point was that Cyprus and the Aegean crisis were only excuses. His advice was that the time had come for Turkey to slap down Greece's ambitions once and for all.

It was only a few weeks after this meeting that the Greeks in Cyprus committed the suicidal foolishness of the coup, with all the blessing of the Greek junta in Athens. That's why, when Turkey acted, everyone agreed there was no other alternative. And that's why, when Turkey stopped short of carrying out its objectives, there was a big outcry of disappointment all over the land.

Greeks again made a mistake and turned down or procrastinated every proposal made by the Turkish delegation at the truce conference. The blunt Turkish foreign minister, Dr. Turan Gunes, gave them an ultimatum and at the end of the deadline. Turkish troops moved again in Cyprus, accusations flew thick and furious around the conferenc e tables. Why didn't the Turks show more patience in negotiating a settlement? Why these short notices and truculence?

Other nations -- most of the Arab countries and West Germany -- sided with the Turks. Ankara accused France of taking sides because of Paris's deal with Athens to sell 50 Mirage jets. Superman Henry Kissinger made noises that ever one interpreted the way they liked, but it was clear that Washington was not to repeat former President Johnson's performance and interference.'

That enraged the Greeks and now it was their turn to hate the Americans. A bunch of wild Greek terrorist in Cyprus attacked the U. S. embassy and killed the ambassador.

Turks reported disccovering mass graves of massacred civilian Turkish population, but Greeks tried first to discredit the find, then came out with an almost exact story of their own. And now,Congress is trying to stop all aid to Turkey against the government's warnings.

While that was going on, the Turkish armed forces occupied one-third of the island, pulled many of the Turkish population in the "Turkish zone" and, finally, minding United Nations appeals, stopped.

Man slain by father

MORLEY — Danny Boley, 26, was killed early this morning when he tried to intervene in an argument between his parents at their home in Morley.

Boley was allegedly shot once in the chest with a .22-caliber pistol by his father, Dwaine Eugene Boley, 47 when he arrived at the family home about 2 a..m. He died at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston at 2:30 a.m.

Deputy Jack Stewart of the Scott County sheriff's department said Boley and his wife had apparently been drinking at the Eagles Club on Trotter St., Sikeston before returning home where they started fighting.

Mrs. Boley telephoned her son to come to the home. He was shot shortly after arriving.

The elder Boley was arrested by the sheriff's department and taken to the Scott County jail in Benton.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed at the hospital this morning.

Boley was born March 24, 1948.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his widow, Sharon Boley; two daughters, Danna and Heidi of the home; one sister, Mrs. Anna McDonald of Houston, Tex. one brother, Kenny Boley of Morley; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Annie Boley of Dover, Ark.

The body is at Nunnelee Funeral Chapel in Sikeston where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Ford launches Japanese visit

TOKYO (AP) — Some 400 helmeted radicals clashed with armored riot police today as President Ford arrived in Japan and about half of them were arrested. Another 2,000 demonstrators shouted anti-Ford slogans.

The outbursts took place two miles from the airport where Ford landed for the briefest of welcomes and did not mar the ceremonies. Ford then took a helicopter to downtown Tokyo for an overnight rest in a heavily guarded palace.

After a 15-hour flight from Washington across the International Date Line, the first American President to visit Japan scheduled a 17-hour respite to rest up before calling on Emperor Hirohito Tuesday and opening talks with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

To minimize the chance of interference by radical leftists opposed to the President's visit, neither the emperor nor Tanaka went to the airport, and the arrival ceremony there lasted only 11 minutes.

Busloads of carefully screened Japanese waved American and Japanese flags and applauded as Ford left Air Force One and shook hands with U.S. Ambassador James Hodgson, Takeshi Yasukawa, the Japanese ambassador to the United States, and Japanese protocol officials.

Howitzers fired a 21-gun salute required by protocol, and the President waved to the crowd as he was escorted to a waiting helicopter for the 10-minute trip to the Wasaksaka Palace in downtown Tokyo.

Leftist demonstrations against the President's visit have so far been largely nonviolent. But the government threw a massive security screen around the presidential visit, with 25,000 Tokyo police on full alert and another 100,000 on standby orders in other parts of the country.

The threat of demonstrations and the uncertain political future of Prime Minister Tanaka, who is accused of using his official position to profit financially, caused some questioning of the value of Ford's trip. But at a sendoff ceremony on the White House lawn, the President said he was making his "first trip overseas as President with full confidence that this timely undertaking is in the highest national interest of the United States....

"I am deeply conscious of the need to continue the quest for peace," Ford said. "I would rather travel thousands of miles for peace than take a single step toward war."

Making a refueling stop at Anchorage's Elmendorf Air Force Base, Ford sought to balance his desire for peace with his support for strong national defenses. To his largely military audience, he said:

"I want to reassure you today that my administration ... remains aware that the best insurance for peace is the maintenance of first-class military forces ready for defense."

Mrs. Ford, recuperating from cancer surgery, did not accompany her husband. She flew with him by helicopter Sunday from the White House to Andrews Air Force Base, where the couple embraced warmly and kissed twice before several hundred well-wishers.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who was with Ford, told reporters aboard Air Force One that no decisions are expected to emerge from Ford's four days in Japan. He said the aim is to expand on current good relations and determine how the United States and Japan can "work together on a global basis."

The secretary of state said substantive matters to be discussed in Tokyo include Japan's role as a world power, stability in the Pacific, international oil problems and such bilaterial topics as trade and agricultural policy.

Station robbery nets $70-$80

Two men held up the Martin Oil Co. service station, 600 E. Malone Ave., at gunpoint and shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday and robbed the attendant of $70 to $80, according to police.

The men, described as black males with women's stockings pulled over their faces, walked into the service station about 9:15 p.m. and ordered station attendant Robert Stacy, 922 Davis Blvd., into the rest room. They then ordered him to hand over the money. One of them had a .22-caliber pistol.

Stacy told police he gave them all the bills in his pocket, totaling between $70 and $80. The men then told him to stay in the rest room while they left.

After a few seconds Stacy came out and saw the men running around the side of the building toward the State Highway Department district offices.

About 30 minutes later two men of the same description ran by the home of Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson on North Ranney Street. Patterson chased the two men and fired his gun at one of them.

Patterson said one of the two men ran into a utility pole while escaping. He said the man struck his head against the pole, but kept running.

Police surrounded the area where the men were believed to be, but the two apparently escaped.

Other thefts reported by police today included:

Chester Caswell, 405 S. Prairie St., told police he lost $190 he gave to a woman Saturday morning for safekeeping.

Caswell said he became drunk at the City Bar, 103 E. Malone Ave., and asked a woman to hold the money while he "was having a good time." The woman put Caswell in a cab about 3 a.m. Saturday and sent him home. Caswell told police he has not seen the money since.

A burglar who may fancy himself a handyman took $348 worth of items from Sikeston Paint and Dry Wall, 412 E. Center St., sometime between Wednesday and Friday.

Taken were two electric heaters worth $30 each, a T-square worth $13, three five-gallon buckets of green paint worth $25 each, two five-gallon buckets of beige paint worth $25 each and 10 white drop clothes worth $15 each.

Police said the burglar got into the building by breaking open a door on the west side of the building.

Burlgars took $54 worth of merchandise from the Quick Check store, 709 Smith St., including a six-pound stick of bologna worth about $6, cheese worth $3, boiled ham worth $10, six cartons of cigarettes worth $22, a flashlight worth $1, $5 in pennies and three five-pound bags of sugar woth $8.

The burgars broke into the building through a door.

Andrew Chapman of Benton told police that someone took a .30-.30 caliber rifle from his camping trailer while he was eating breakfast about 2:45 a.m. Saturday at the Southside Cafe on Highway 61 South.

The rifle was valued at $89.

Vetoes, lame ducks awaiting Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is returning to business with many lame ducks among its ranks, a pile of unfinished business and more trials of strength with the executive branch.

Both houses convene today, and will shortly be taking a recess for Thanksgiving.

Six veto messages from President Ford await the House. The Democratic leadership plans to attempt congressional overrides on at least the vetoes of amendments to the Freedom of Information Act and of a bill broadening the vocational rehabilitation program.

The override votes tentatively have been set for Wednesday.

The Senate Rules Committee, which did not meet its goal of completing hearings on the Rockefeller nomination last week, resumes its sessions today. The House Judiciary Committee begins its hearings on Rockefeller cn Thursday.

Leaders of both chambers say they expect to dispose of the nomination before adjourning some time in late December.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which has been wrestling with tax revision during most of the present Congress' two-year life, goes to work on a slimmed-down package of changes. Committee members are skeptical about how many tax-law amendments can be pushed through to final enactment before all pending legislation dies with this session of Congress.

The package is expected to include higher taxes on oil companies, some relief for low-income persons and perhaps inducements for saving in institutions that finance mortgages.

The Senate takes up a high priority money measure — an $8.6 billion catch-all appropriation bill to finance educational and other programs for the remainder of the fiscal year that ends June 30.

The measure includes $200,000 for transitional expenses for former President Richard M. Nixon. The House approved the figure, cutting it down from the $850,000 recommended by Ford.

For Thanksgiving

Turkeys cost less but rest of menu increases

By The Associated Press

Americans trying to fit holiday celebrations into inflation-tight budgets have at least one thing to be thankful for this year: turkey is cheaper than it was in 1973.

An Associated Press survey showed that while the cost of most of the ingredients of a Thanksgiving dinner has gone up, turkey prices have dropped by about 20 cents a pound to an average of 49 to 69 cents.

Poultry producers said the reason for the decline was an abundant supply and they complained they were losing money on their birds.

"We've been losing up to $2 per bird," said Carl Johnson, head of the Wisconsin Turkey Federation. Poultry producers said it costs about 35 cents a pound to raise a turkey. They're getting only about 28 cents a pound.

The rest of the Thanksgiving dinner is more expensive, however.

A comparison of supermarket advertisements in Montgomery County, Md., for November, 1973 and November, 1974 showed bread, used for stuffing, was up from 30 to 48 cents a loaf; fresh cranberries went from 29 to 39 cents a pound. And, if you get a headache from all the festivities, aspirin went from 59 cents per 100 to 89.

Most Americans said they'd manage a traditional dinner despite inflation, but there were exceptions.

"Usually we have company and we buy more than one meat. This year we are getting a small turkey and that's it," said Yvonne Porter of Detroit. Mrs. Porter and her husband are both out of work — she is on strike from her job at Detroit Optometric Center and he has been laid off from his post as a security guard.

"The holiday we would usually go way out," said Mrs. Porter. "Now we can just barely feed our family."

New women's page editor joins staff

The Daily Standard would like to introduce you to Jackie Schoeneman, the new women's page editor.

Miss Schoeneman is a 1974 journalism graduate of University of Missouri at Columbia. She majored in magazine with an emphasis on feature work or human interest stories.

She said it is her goal to work in small towns because she likes the life-style and is from a small town, too. Her hometown is Aplington in northeastern Iowa, where her parents farm 600 acres and have a cow-calf and grain operation.

To make the women's page the best yet, Jackie said she welcomes any suggestions of interest to women such as women's hoppies, their problems, their homes or club functions.

Linnemeyer resigns as city fire chief

Larry Linnemeyer resigned as Sikeston fire chief this morning to accept a position as an investigator for the state fire marshal's office.

Linnemeyer said his resignation will be effective immediately and he will join the fire marshal's office on Dec. 1.

He said he plans to continue to live in Sikeston and use it as a base to cover his 20-county area in Southeast Missouri.

Linnemeyer cited low pay as one reason for leaving the department. Another reason, he said, was the city's slowness in upgrading the fire department.

"I think people's safety is more important then their recreation," Linnemeyer said, referring to the 140-acre recreational complex the city is building. He has often expressed his unhappiness that the city chose to build the park complex instead of a northside fire station.

Linnemeyer joined the fire department in November 1972. He was employed by the University City fire department before coming to Sikeston.

FARM SHOP

The cluttered farm shop was a relaxing place on a stormy late autumn day. A rusty old stove raised the temperature to a comfortable level while cold rain or sleet played tic-tac against cobweb blotched windows.

After morning chores and breakfast a countryman faced a pleasant dilemma. There were always puttering jobs waiting — an evener to mend, a whiffletree to repair, a new teeth to be wittled for the bull rake.

But man cannot work all the time. On a Squaw Winter day, a man felt justified to sit in his old wicker chair by the stove and pore over the mail order catalog or catch up on farm magazines.

The farm shop wasn't a good example of housekeeping. Old, torn horse blankets and broken horse collars hung from wooden pegs; shop corners were crowded with shovels, spades, sledge hammers and crow bars. A half used bag of phosphate added its fragrance to burlap bags, kegs of nails, a pile of lumber beneath the bench and the dirt and debris on the floor.

Old-fashioned farm shops are gone. Today the shop resembles a garage with intricate machinery waiting for its winter overhaul. But there are those who remember the shop of yesteryear and the pleasant hours spent catching up on odd jobs or relaxing while solid maple and oak made cheerful music in an old stove.

AN ERA OF
SUPER— VIOLENCE

A solution is still to be found to the gathering momentum of domestic and international terrorism. Both in our own country and abroad the "new breed of terrorist" described by California Attorney General, Eveile Younger, grows bolder and more practiced at his craft.

In testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Younger said that the typical terrorist at large in America today is better educated, more resourceful and disciplined. Ominously, he is armed with a political ideology which serves to motivate him. Thus he usually has no interest in material or monetary gain. In addition, the new breed of terrorists view themselves in a historical perspective; time, they feel, is on their side. They view the revolutionary struggle as a protracted one, and they choose where and when they will act with deliberation.

Our domestic terrorists identify closely with their foreign counterparts. The exploits of the Tupamaros in Uruguay, the Palestinian radicals, and the Irish extremists serve as models. The Institute for the Study of Conflict in London has estimated (conservatively) that there are at least 86 extremist movements in the world, ranging from extreme right to extreme left. Many now involve kidnappings, but others, such as the Lod Airport massacre in Israel by the Japanese Red Army, and the more recent bombing episodes in England and the U. S. simply are designed to kill at random.

Terrorists are difficult to deal with because they generally have little fear of death and they have no religious scruples against murder. While many are passionately dedicated to a cause, such as the "liberation" of Palestine, others are simply nihilists who use revolution as a rationale for their innate feelings of aggression.

Either way, the outlook is grim. "Our nation's 200th anniversary," testified Attorney General Younger, "may mark the beginning of an era of 'super-violence' in this country."

Plans are evidently being laid for mass domestic violence in 1976. Our citizens will need to give their full support to the agencies charged with protecting the public order from those who would destroy it.

West European unity, which gained its original impetus a generation ago from the menace of the Soviet Union, might be about to get another reawakening from the same source: threatening Russian moves on Europe's eastern marches. Apostles of detente, who are determined to see only the "gradual consolidation of peace," have failed to notice that the imminent end of Josip Broz Tito's long reign heralds dangers of a sort which the Continent has not faced for decades.

The mosaic of nationalities, tongues and creeds known as Yugoslavia, which Tito has held together bymain force as he led it half-way out of the Soviet bloc, will soon be leaderless. Getting ready to move, the Soviet has sent up the customary smokescreen. Pravda is denouncing "attempts at building up tension in the Balkans, where hostile imperialist forces have long plotted their intrigues."

Needless to say, the sole intrigues involved are Russian. Moscow is pressing Romania to grant it a military corridor through which Soviet troops could pass to Bulgaria, thence to the Yugoslavia border. There they would be massed, ready to intervene when Tito goes. For Mowcow, the stakes are high. Reduction of the Titoist heresy, humiliation of Romanian independence and encirclement of tiny Albania would strengthen the Kremlin, ideologically an militarily, in its confrontation with Red China.

Our politicians, in both parties, are absorbed in getting votes. They lie awake nights thinking up new ways of spending money we haven't got to get more votes. The survival of our country is in desperate jeopardy but some candidates for the presidency are advocating cutting back defense. Are we as stupid as those candidates;

In The Public Interest

Frequently companies and whole industries go before the bar of public opinion or before public regulatory agencies with carefully reasoned pleas for measures favorable to the needs of the companies or industries involved. Just as frequently, spokesmen for the affected industries stop short of showing how the public has the greatest interest in the preservation of strong, productive, taxpaying enterprises.

For years, as nearly everyone knows, the railroad industry of the United States--in fact transportation generally--has been adversely affected by regulatory policies that discourageed growth and competition. But, at long last, through the unified efforts of various elements of common carrier transportation, it is likely that constructive changes in public attitudes and laws will materialize. The changes, when they come, will largely have been brought through education of the public on transportation facts of life. The Association of American Railroads has issued a pamphlet aimed directly at the public. It is entitled," The Choice: A Smaller America...Or Better Transportation." The purpose of the pamphlet is to encourage support and improve the major forms of surface transport. As the pamphlet says, "this legislation isn't important only to those who send cargo – or receive it -- on trains or trucks or barges. It's important to everyone. Better transportation will provide the foundation to allow America to grow as it should."

Transportation has made possible an unparalleled distribution of abundance in the United States. It is in the public interest, therefore, for all modes of transport to continue to be part of a strong and growing industry. This is the case that primary elements of the surface transportation industry have joined in presenting to the nation and its lawmakers.

Planning for the Future

Grim stories have depicted the nation as rapidly running out of energy resources--particularly of the fossil fuel variety. In the natural gas industry, a publication of the American Gas Association has replied to claims that natural gas producers are deliberately holding gas off the market by citing a Federal Power Commission report which indicates that 75 of the largest natural gas producers had committed more than 98 percent of their proved gas reserves for sale by late 1970. Judging by this, there could hardly be a conspiracy to jack up prices by holding supplies off the market.

Equally baseless are the parched Earth scare stories. The world and the United States still possess a rich measure of energy resources--in the ground. Authoritative studies have placed the potential supply of natural gas in the U.S. at about 1,178 trillion cubic feet. This is in addition to the current proved reserve total of 290.7 trillion cubic feet. The primary reason for a growing natural gas shortage has been lack of incentives that encourage gas producers, like oil producers, to undertake the capital risks necessary to find new reserves.

Natural gas has been one of the most rapidly growing of the energy industries, and as the release of the American Gas Association makes plain, the industry "..can make a broad contribution to our national economy and an adequate domestic natural gas supply can make specific contributions to the regional economies in our nation's major consuming areas...the total dollar investment in transmission and distribution facilities is now more than $40 billion. This is expected to double by 1990."

The gas industry, obviously, is planning for the future on the commonsense assumption that the nation's natural resource policies will encourage maximum exploration and development of the vase oil and gas reserves yet to be discovered and put to mankind's use.

The Missouri pedestrian death toll for the first ten months of the year is substantially lower than that for the comparable period in 1973.

Records of the Missouri State Highway Patrol show that 101 persons (Urban - 63, Rural - 38) were killed from January through October of this year as they walked the State's streets and highways. This is 53 fewer pedestrians than were killed during the first ten months of 1973 when 154 pedestrians (Urban - 86, Rural - 68) lost their lives in traffice.

Colonel Sam S. Smith, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, while pleased with the notable decrease in the pedestrian fatality toll, voiced some apprehension for the safety of pedestrians during the remaining weeks of the year.

"Longer hours of darkness and inclement weather during this time of the year are conditions that increase the possibility of a pedestrian being involved in a collision with a motor vehicle," Smith stated. "Drivers should take every precaution to compensate for low visibility and slippery surfaces. Pedestrians, at the same time, should also make allowances for these conditions and do everything possible to avoid being involved in an accident."

The Patrol Superintendent then pointed out some safety rules for drivers and pedestrians. Drivers: Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions. Be prepared and able to stop for a pedestrian in your traffic lane; stop before reaching the sidewalk when backing from alleys or private driveways and then proceed only when the way is clear. Pedestrians: Wear light-colored clothing when walking at night; walk to the left facing traffic where there are no sidewalks; keep packages and umbrellas from blocking your vision; and cross streets only at intersections or at designated crosswalks.

"The notable decrease in the pedestrian fatality toll so far this year is very gratifying," Smith concluded. "I urge drivers and pedestrians to continue their safe driving and walking practices, particularly in the weeks ahead when adverse weather and low visibility conditions are present."

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Petroleum is the key to meeting tomorrow's energy needs. Yet, critics have done a pretty good job of undermining public confidence in the character and sincerity of spokesmen for the oil industry. Now the public must take a close look and judge for itself whether those who speak in behalf of such things as a national energy policy and the need to expand petroleum and gas development know what they are talking about.

The top official of one of the country's largest oil companies has said, "Our operations, our practices, our motives, and even our basic value to society have been attacked. For the most part, the criticism has been negative and has been based on poor information that showed little, if any, understanding of the real situation." This oilman, in a lengthy talk, reviews the "key figures" of the energy story and the oil industry. They show there is no time to waste if the growing imbalance in supply and consumption of energy is to be remedied in the U.S. and throughout the world. He calls for "a national energy policy" that will take into account all of the many factors related to total energy supply and energy demand. He recommends six points that this policy should consider. They range from coordinating all factors relating to energy supply and consumption to acceptance of the fact that, "The availability of energy in adequate amounts and at reasonable cost is fundamental to the future well-being of all the peoples of the free world."

Many others have expressed similar views on energy and its place in the future of our country and that of all mankind. The character and sincerity of these spokesmen is evident beyond all reasonable doubt. The question is, how much longer will the public continue to be fooled by the misinformation and political quackery that seems to have made a game of hiding energy facts and discrediting the motives of energy spokesmen?

EATING OUR
SEED CROP

A strange scheme for helping the poverty stricken is revealed in a press report describing how the federal government, through the Office of Economic Opportunity, has granted $50,000 to a local community action organization for the purpose of establishing food co- ops for low- income people. According to the press report, the scheme has been opposed by local retailers "...who feel their tax dollars are being used to build up food co- ops they will have to compete with."

The retailers have a point. America has the most efficient, mass retail distribution system in the world. Goods of all kinds move through this system expeditiously and at the lowest possible prices. The largest retail organizations, chain or independent, are ruled by the same master-- competition. Every retailer is part of a distribution mechanism that is able to provide the smallest hamlet as well as the larger cities with the abundance produced by millions of U.S. farms and factories of all kinds. While politicians speak of "pockets of poverty", the fact remains that mass production– and mass distribution-- are the backbone of a national level of well- being without parallel. The industries involved in production and distribution also provide the taxes that support the manifold activities of government-- including all the social and economic programs to aid those with low incomes.

How in the world can a nation continue to pour billions upon billions of dollars into these programs if it adopts a policy of underwriting schemes that depend upon tax support and, at the same time, undermine the enterprises that pay the taxes? The answer is, it can't. Substituting handout projects for taxpaying, private enterprise without regard to the consequences is is just like eating next year's seed crop.

UNFAIR TO WHOM?

More than a year ago, an investor- owned power company, serving a sparsely settled region of the far west, felt justified in asking for a rate increase. It had had no increase since 1945. On November 23, 1970, it requested a rate adjustment from the state regulatory authority. Briefs were filed, testimony was taken and by the summer of 1971, the Public Utility Commissioner was ready to grant the necessary increase. Then, Phase I of the price-wage and rent controls was imposed. The company's impending rate increase was suspended. As a spokesman for the Public Utility Commission put it, "In other words they were told to refile after the freeze."

After waiting 25 years, the company is now waiting for a federal advisory board to decide what upward adjustments are in order. Anyone who thinks this is merely a case of unfairness to a company should stop and think again. If mindless rules prevent a power company from earning the money it must have to attract investors to expand in accordance with the requirements of customer demand and to meet the rising burden of costly pollution control devices, the public and the company's customers are the victims. Power consumers may have to endure an energy shortage. The air we breathe might not be quite as pure as it could have been.

The question of unfairness in government price and wage controls is far broader than the vision of those who see such controls as anything but a temporary and unavoidable evil.

Private Schools Deserve Notice

Inadequacies in the public school systems, together with social problems, have led increasing numbers of concerned parents to set about finding or establishing good private schools in order to give their children some kind of decent education and reasonable safety at school.

No longer is it only affluent whites who are putting their children in private schools. Middle-class and lower middle-class blacks, browns and whites are all looking for and finding better answers to the problems their children are encountering. These problems include inadequate standards of reading, composition, mathematics, and conduct.

Most public schools have become simply custodial institutions, a high percentage of whose "graduates" turn out to be functional illiterates. It seems that the more federal tax dollars and "guidelines" thrown at the problem, the worse it becomes.

One private group in Harlingen, Texas, has based its school on the fundamentals of reading, writing, and arithmetic--plus the tradition traditions of patriotism and leadership exemplified by the U.S. Marines. Appropriately, the school is named the Marine Military Academy, and it is headed by Major General George S. Bowman, Jr., U.S. Marine Corps (Ret). Schools such as this derserve the support of all concerned citizens. HLH

Ford and Highest Labor, Management Advisers' In Secret Session, Find No Solution

WASHINGTON--If you're going to be a White House watcher, a touch of the Kremlinologists' technique helps--observe who's sitting or standing alongside whom and being photographed in what position during important occasions.

Well, there was a confidential gathering of the White House Labor-Management Committee, directed by secrecy-oriented Harvard Prof. John Dunlop in the Roosevelt Room Armistice Day (Nov. 11) afternoon. Someone had left an empty chair between cigar-prone labor chief George Meany and his second-in-command, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland.Could be accidental? But it doesn't happen that way in the White House. When President Ford came in for the tightly closed door, hour-long discussion of economic problems, he steered straight for the seat between the two national labor leaders.

It was a friendly trio at that end of the table around whom sat some of the nation's top executive-suite industrial captains representing General Electric, U.S. Steel and General Motors among others. The committee earlier had met in the Treasury Department. Then it lunched with action-packed, free-marketer, open-economy secretary Bill Simon (menu strictly secret). Then, over to the White House they went.

Meany has been tough on House Speaker Carl Albert and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. Most Democrats, and their philosophical mentors such as Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, are gung ho for putting the stabilization controls on Jerry Ford's back. And the chances are they'll vote for a standby wage-price controls bill by next March or April. This would give the President the power to move--and he may in certain fields.

In turn, Mr. Ford is happy to pass the ball up the Hill. He said the other day that Meany now has his veto-proof Congress it has the responsibility to show the country what it can do.

But that did not offend Meany. He feels the same way. He'll go for wage and price controls and a "big bureaucracy" to enforce them if profits' rents, dividends, salaries, bonuses, stock options, all fees, etc., are also stabilized. This isn't exactly President Ford's thinking. But he and Meany agree that this isn't the time for controls.

So Meany, Kirkland and the President chuckled it up at the secret session during the long discussion of the economy, the nation's international position, the fiscal and monetary policies, energy conservation, the world's raw material problems and agricultural policy.

Outcome? The President and guests unanimously agreed there is a problem. How to solve it? Well, an unexpected starter in the group was a non-committee member, Dick Nixon's former economic czar George Shultz. He helped kick the props out from under the wage-price controls during his tenure in the White House and Treasury Secretary.

It was a fascinating session. They agreed time had come to get tough on energy. But that's not easy. How can this be done without rationing fuel and power? And, for example, Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons wants the highway speed regulation lifted from its present limit. That would help his 400,000 over-the-road truck drivers.

But Meany is on record for a strict 55-mile-an-hour speed limit which could diminish truckers' incomes though conserving gasoline.

There was talk of specific policies to be outlined soon by the President if voluntary efforts failed. Much of these will be limned in the State of the Union message in January. So most of the conferees wanted to be assured they would get a speech preview and the chance for input."

Strangely, there was general agreement on all sides. The government obviously will move hard on the push for more housing construction, public employment and unemployment compensation. The money already is available for 170,000 such W.P.A. type jobs. And more money will be handy for another 230,000.

Further, this year the government already has put some $19 billion into mortgage money for construction and soon will come up with more.

It would have been nice if Mine Workers Leader Arnold Miller, a committee member, had also been present. But he was across the park in a Hotel Hay Adams negotiation room heading for a national coal strike--which can knock all reckoning out of the ball park.

However, the group of strong men around the President was uniquely united--men such as Meany, Fitz, the Seafarers leader Paul Hall, U.S. Steel Heath Larry, General Electric chief executive officer Reg Jones and G.M.'s Dick Gerstenberg. Their decision: The country is in trouble. And they'll meet again on Dec. 16 for better or worse. Agreement: It will be worse. And so the secret session adjourned.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round
Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Those friendly phone calls President Ford has been making to random Americans haven't been as spontaneous as they have seemed.

When he phoned baseball slugger Al Kaline to congratulate him on his 3,000 hit, for example, the President has a memo in front of him coaching him on what to say.

Indeed, the White House has urged Cabinet members, as a side duty, to suggest people whom the President should call on the telephone. "I look forward," instructed presidential aide Warren Rustand, "to receiving at least one telephone recommendation from you every Friday."

The idea, according to Rustand's private memo to the Cabinet, is "to identify the President with different and worthy programs and events."

Rustand himself suggested the call to Kaline after the Detroit Tigers batting star batted in his way into the sports headlines on September 24,.

Explained Rustand in a memo intended for the President's eyes only:

"Al Kaline reached his goal of 3,000 baseball hits during Tigers-Oriole baseball game in Baltimore last night. He is the 12th person to pass this mark. No American Leaguer has achieved it in 39 years."

Properly impressed, President Ford telephoned Kaline in Baltimore, What the ballplayer didn't know was that Ford spoke to him from a written script. The secret script, prepared by Rustand, called for the President to say:

"1. Congratulations on your 3,000th base hit.

"2. One of the nicest things about breaking this record is that it occured in your hometown, Baltimore. However, I know your family and many friends from Michigan were with you both at the game itself and in spirit.

"3. I know you are looking forward to your retirement as a chance to spend more time with your sons (ages 17 and 13) and your family. May I say that I would like to see you continue playing the game.

"4. Congratulations, again. This puts you in an elite category among all the men who have played the game."

The President made similar calls to slugger Hank Aaron who broke Babe Ruth's home run recore; the Cleveland Indians' new manager, Frank Robinson, after he was chosen the first black manager in the major leagues and another black, Simon Gourdine, who was named deputy commissioner of the National Basketball Association.

The President has also called many non-athletes, including families struck by tragedy and government employes with extraordinary records.

Footnote: In exhorting Cabinet members to provide "input for the Presidential Telephone Call Recommendation Program," the White House sent around a sample suggestion form. This provides a blank for "the name of the person you recommend be called," another line for the "suggested date call should be placed," and a space to spell out the "purpose" of the call ("preferably one sentence; two at most").

The form also calls for "background information you feel will be helpful to the President" and talking points.. that you recommend be made during the conversation." The Cabinet officers are further instructed: "Original plus four copies are to be sent to Warren Rustand."

Explained a White House spokesman: "When Cabinet secretaries see someone achieving something in their area, they let the White House know so the President can give them a call."

Inquiries at the national Cancer Institute have shot up from about 250 to 2,500 per month.

The auto industry is lobbying to get rid of the catalytic converters, which are now required in all new cars to reduce the amount of noxious exhaust. Yet a secret Environmental Protection Agency report, prepared last May, declares that if the converters are retained until 1980 they could "substanitally reduce the exposure of millions of commuters...to cancer-causing chemicals." This is most important, states the report , for children "who are...absorbing excessive quantities of lead"...Our recent column on conditions in veterans hospitals caused a public relations crisis at the Veterans Administration. The chief medical director, John Chase, was summoned back from California to hold a press conference and release a suppressed report before our story could come out.

World News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon predicts the Senate will vote to confirm Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president soon after Thanksgiving. The Nevada Democrat also says he expects to vote in favor of the nomination "on the basis of what I know now." He convenes the committee hearings today for the fourth and final session of the nationally televised inquiry.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz is preparing a counterattack against criticism at the World Food Conference in Rome that the Ford administration is dragging its feet on aid to hungry nations. The 11-day Rome conference ended early Sunday after the Ford administration turned down a request for an immediate boost of one milion tons in U.S. aid this year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment say the recent state legislative elections have brightened chances that five more states will ratify ERA, thus making it part of the Constitution. The Constitution requires approval by 38 states, and 33 states previously have approved the amendment. The ERA would prohibit discrimination based on sex.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The oil-rich Shah of Iran, who has become the biggest buyer of U.S. arms, is reported interested in buying some supersized C5 military transport planes. If the Shah should decide to order C5s, the production line would have to be reopened because the U.S. Air Force has completed its purchases of the planes.

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Democratic governors are seeking ways to prod the Democratic-controlled Congress into passing significant anti-inflation measures. The state executives meeting on this resort island also want to prevent renewed factional battles at the party's mini-convention next month in Kansas City. Minnesota Gov. Wendell R. Anderson, chairman of the Democratic governors, called on the party's congressional leaders to pass "significant bills that deal with inflation."

UNDATED — Americans trying to fit holiday celebrations into inflation-tight budgets have at least one thing to be thankful for this year: turkey is cheaper than it was in 1973. An Associated Press survey showed that while the cost of most of the ingredients of a Thanksgiving dinner has gone up, turkey prices have dropped by about 20 cents a pound to an average of 49 to 69 cents. Poultry producers said the reason for the decline was an abundant supply and complained they were losing money on their birds.

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Rachel Fitler, 77-year-old Main Line millionairess, says she still plans to marry her 29-year-old former chauffeur. "We're too old for puppy talk," she assured a reporter Sunday, walking near the garden of her estate in suburban Philadelphia. "Everything's the same as it was unless Mikey changes his mind," he said, referring to her fiance, 29-year-old Michael Wilson of Wales. But Miss Fitler refused to say whether a wedding date has been set. "We're just drifting," she said.

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford arrived in Japan today for the briefest of airport welcomes, then took a helicopter to downtown Tokyo for an overnight rest in a heavily guarded palace. After a 15-hour flight from Washington across the International Date Line, the first American President to visit Japan scheduled a 17-hour respite to rest up before calling on Emperor Hirohito Tuesday and opening talks with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Premier Constantine Caramanlis, who led Greece back to democracy after seven years of military dictatorship, won a resounding victory in the nation's first parliamentary election in more than a decade. Caramanlis' New Democracy party had about 55 per cent of the vote and possibly more than 200 seats in the 300-member, unicameral parliament.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli gunboats made their second attack on Lebanon in three weeks during the night, but tension on the Syrian-Israeli front eased. The Lebanese government said Israeli naval forces made two attacks on the Rashidiye refugee camp, where 30,000 Palestinians live on the southern edge of Tyre. But the Israeli military command said the target was "a terrorist departure base" south of Rashidiye. The Lebanese communique said there was no assessment of casualties.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has brought the body of her predecessor, Eva Peron, back to Argentina in hopes that this will placate some of the opponents of her government. "May this historic instant be the bond that cements the grandness of the Fatherland with mutual respect in harmonious co-existence," said the late President Juan D. Peron's third wife as she received the mahogany casket containing the remains of Peron's second wife at an airport ceremony Sunday morning. Eva Peron died of cancer in 1952 at the age of 33. A woman of enormous ambition and ability, she organized the Argentine masses behind Peron and was adored by them.

Coroner law unconstitutional

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A new state law permitting the elimination of the coroner's office and replacing it with that of medical examiner in first class counties and the city of St. Louis has been declared unconstitutional.

Circuit Judge Michael F. Godfrey, ruling on a suit filed by St. Louis Coroner Helen Taylor, said the law is unconstitutional because it incorporates more than one subject in a single act, and because the title to the bill was not sufficiently descriptive to meet requirements of the Constitution.

The state law would have replaced an elected coroner with an appointed medical examiner.

Mayor John H. Poelker had ordered the Board of Election Commissioners to place on the ballot a proposal to change from the coroner setup to the medical examiner plan in the city. Mrs. Taylor's suit was filed against members of the election board.

Godfrey prepared a writ of prohibition that would prevent the board from placing the medical examiner issue before the voters.

Chamber board sets meeting

NEW MADRID — The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce office.

2 homes burglarized

MATTHEWS — Two house burglaries on Highway 61 North were reported Friday night to the New Madrid County sheriff's department.

The E. A. Acord home, located four miles north of town, was discovered burglarized about 10:30 p.m. The home had been entered by breaking a window.

Items reported stolen included one .22-caliber rifle, one 16-gauge shotgun, a case of shotgun shells, two gun cases, a clock radio, assorted jewelry and between $10 and $15 in Kennedy half-dollars.

A burglary at the Amon Ring home about five miles north of the Acord house was reported at 11 p.m.

A console AM-FM radio, a five-foot artificial weeping willow tree, a canister set, towles, pot holder rack and potholders were taken.

A back door had been pried open.

Elections brighten ERA chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment say the recent state legislative elections have brightened the chances that five more states will ratify ERA, thus making it part of the Constitution.

The Constitution requires approval by 38 states, and 33 states previously have approved the amendment. The ERA would prohibit discrimination based on sex.

The new optimism among ERA supporters represents a turnaround from the pessimism expressed last summer at a meeting of the National Women's Political Caucus.

Mary Brooks, ERA coordinator for the League of Women Voters, and Pat Keefer of Common Cause had told the caucus that they doubted the ERA would be approved by more than two or three more states this spring.

But the elections changed that forecast.

"I don't know of a state where we haven't picked up pro-ERA strength," said Ms. Brooks, who prefers the designation Ms.

The defeat of anti-ERA incumbents was particularly noticeable in such states as Missouri, Florida, Arizona and South Carolina, she said.

In some contests, the victors were women challenging anti-ERA office holders. In other cases, the winners were men who had the backing of the informal ERA lobby, consisting of the League, the National Women's Political Caucus, Common Cause, the National Organization for Women, the Business and Professional Women and others.

"This will have a tremendous effect on the lobbying power of the women's groups," said Ms. Brooks. "Last year we weren't taken seriously. This year we damn well are going to be."

Diane Saulter of Common Cause said pro-ERA candidates won in the overwhelming majority of races where the ERA was a central issue.

This year's elections were the first to test the political potency of the ERA issue.

"I will be amazed if Illinois, North Dakota, and Missouri don't ratify it next year," Ms. Brooks said. "North Carolina, Oklahoma and Nevada have very good chances. Florida, Indiana and Arizona are going to have some real battles but they have a chance to ratify, too."

Phyllis Schlafly, the Alton, Ill., crusader against the ERA, denied there had been any rout of her supporters from statehouses.

Fitler wedding plans still on

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Rachel Fitler, 77-year-old Main Line millionairess, says she still plans to marry her 29-year-old former chauffeur.

"We're too old for puppy talk," she assured a reporter Sunday, walking near the garden of her estate in suburban Philadelphia.

"Everything's the same as it was unless Mikey changes his mind," she said, referring to her fiance, 29-year-old Michael Wilson of Wales.

But Miss Fitler refused to say whether a wedding date has been set. "We're just drifting," she said.

Miss Fitler said she didn't mind being single — until now. "I just had a good home. But now I'm kind of lonely."

Then, her thin, aristocratic face lit up as she spoke of Wilson:

"This boy came along and he wanted it (marriage). I put all the blame on him.

"He told he before he went (to Wales) that he'd put it (an engagement announcement) in a local paper. I had no idea it would go beyond that."

Wilson, vacationing on the English Channel island of Guernsey, was quoted this week in a London newspaper as saying: "I spoke to Miss Fitler only a week ago, and everything was fine. Her only concern was that I should enjoy myself. She didn't object to the things I told reporters. As far as I know, the wedding is still on. I haven't heard anything to the contrary."

Miss Fitler said, "Mikey is an only child and has been a great deal with older people. I met his mother and father, they visited here. I think they're very clean cut."

Miss Fitler shared a family fortune, which totaled $8 million in 1931, with her niece Happy Rockefeller, wife of Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller.

She said she doesn't think she deserved the publicity she has received since her marriage plans were revealed last month.

"I'm just an ordinary person," she said, standing outside her mansion, her charcoal-grey hair pulled back severely from her face.

Hornersville man shot

GAINESVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Herschel Pace, 32, Hornersville, Mo., apparently is the first fatality of the 1974 Missouri deer hunting season, reports the highway patrol.

Pace, dead on arrival at a Mountain Home, Ark., hospital, was accidentally shot in the back at close range Sunday with a .45-caliber hand gun, the patrol said. Michael Gabbert, 27, St. Louis, was quoted by authorities as saying he had opened the cylinder of the revolver and closed it with the hammer cocked when it discharged.

What all women should ask when husband is cheating

Dear Ann Landers: When a woman wrote and asked how many times a wife should forgive a husband who cheats, you quoted the Bible--Matthew 18:21- 22. Peter asked Jesus, "How often should I forgive a brother who sins against me? Seven times?" Jesus replied, "No. Seventy times seven."

Does that mean I should forgive this rat 490 times? If so, I've got to live through 470 more affairs. I don't think I'll make it. Any advice?– No Martyr

Dear N.M.: You took me too literally, dear. I'll tell you now what I should have said when the other woman wrote. Every woman whose husband cheats should ask herself this question: "Would my life be better or worse without him?" She should then do what is best for her, because there is no blanket solution to this one.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the wife of a clergyman and have been tempted to write many times, always on the same subject. After what happened today, I decided to put it off no longer.

My husband spent several hours doing premarital counseling for this couple I will call Albert and Amy. Last night was my birthday but my husband couldn't attend the small party given by my sister because he had to be at the wedding rehearsal. This afternoon the wedding took place.

After the ceremony, the groom called my husband aside and asked, "What do I owe you?" My husband told the young man that he does not charge fees. The reply was, "How wonderful of you to be so generous. Thank you very much!" Like many others, the young man didn't realize he owed the clergyman something even though there was no set fee.

The groom and his parents are financially well off. The wedding was one of the loveliest this town has seen. Wouldn't you think the parents would know better, if the groom doesn't? Please answer in print for the benefit of ALL clergymen who have this problem.-- Their Name Is Legion

Dear Friend: Usually the groom or his best man hands the clergyman an envelope following the ceremony-- or, if there is no envelope and the groom asks, "What do I owe you?" the clergyman should have a figure in his head and not be ashamed to let it come out of his mouth. I know of no professional person who works for nothing, when the client can afford to pay, and I don't see why a clergyman should be expected to.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is in response to "No Fan Of Yours," the parent who felt your column should be removed from the newspaper because you spoke out on such subjects as homosexuality and V.D.

I'm a boy, almost 16. I've read your column since I was nine years old. My parents never told me one thing about sex or anything connected with it. It was from reading your column that I learned most of what I know.

I want to thank you, Ann, for helping me (and thousands of other kids) to grow up to be more mature and responsible. God bless you. May you continue to do your good work for many years to come.-- Joe G.

Dear Joe: Thank you for one of the nicest letters I have ever received. I plan to keep on doing what I'm doing until my typewriter or I fall apart–whichever comes first.

Confidential to A Worry Wart Who Needs To Get It All Together: A big worry will drive out the small ones. And seeing as how there is always a still bigger worry coming along (you can count on it), tell yourself to be thankful for the small worry you now have and count your blessings.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. FOUR TO FIVE BATHS A DAY CAN REDUCE DEODORANT NEED

Deodorants would not be needed, says a leader in the field, if one could take a bath every four to six hours.

Soap and water, one of the first deodorants, is still highly effective, but the problem is that for the most part it doesn't last long enough.

Controlled tests of feminine deodorant by an independent testing laboratory showed body odor apparent after six hours among those women in the tests who used only soap and water, while none was detected at the end of the 12-hour test among those who had used soap and water plus the deodorant.

'Lilias, Yoga and You'

NEW YORK (AP) — I used to think yoga devotees only were health buffs who spend half their lives wrapping their legs around their necks. Not any more. Lilias Folan has set me straight, so to speak.

And she knows whereof she speaks. She teaches yoga on her "Lilias, Yoga and You" series that the Public Broadcasting Service airs three times a week for the 124 public TVB stations now carrying it.

First of all, she said as I assumed the classic interview position, a tuned-up body is by no means the sole benefit of yoga exercise; it's equally beneficial to one's spiritual and mental well-being.

"I'd define yoga as the art of living," said Mrs. Folan, a charming, ra en-haired woman whose only apparent flaw is that she makes one feel guilty his only exercises are mulling and brooding.

"It gives you the tools to cope with life and its challenges," she continued. "And the exercises are a marvelous springboard for self-knowledge."

Mrs. Folan said she had been undergoing therapy for emotional problems when she happened to read a book on yoga about 12 years ago.

While she now considers the book superficial, she said it changed her life by helping her realize yoga's aims aren't so much body tone as hey are peace of mind, higher energy levels and release of tensions.

She said she took up the teaching of yoga after only a year's study, mainly because her first teacher was so bad she felt she could do the job far better.

Mrs. Folan, who's married to a business executive and is the mother of two boys, still was teaching when the family moved from Connecticut to Cincinnati, Ohio, about seven years ago.

Two years later, after a number of guest shots on local commercial TV as a yoga expert, she said she proposed the idea of a regular yoga series to public TV station WCET in Cincinnati.

Station officials liked the idea, gave it a try and it's been on ever since, although this is the first season "Lilias, Yoga and You" has been offered nationally by PBS.

'Musical dreams' come true on Christmas day

Many Americans harbor a secret wish — the desire to play a musical instrument. For many of these daydreamers, this wish can come true this Christmas.

Under hundreds of evergreens this year will be pear-shaped packages containing a guitar, banjo, ukulele or even a mandolin. Fretted instruments are among the most popular gifts for teens as well as grown-ups, and are second only to keyboard in the number of amateur participants.

According to the Guitar and Accessory Manufacturers Association, there are more than 7,000,000 Americans plucking away regularly on a guitar or one of its musical relatives. And its appeal transcends all age levels and musical abilities.

Unlike other categories of musical instruments, the guitar and its kin are relatively easy to learn to play. If your ear is keen you may be able to pick out a turn right away. With a lesson or two in a group it's easy to accompany a family caroling session.

Fretted strings have the added advantage of being social as well as private instruments, that is, you can play them in a group or for a group, and enjoy them just as much when you're playing by and for yourself.

Music is a present that brings enjoyment to both the recipient and the giver.

Project pins given to 4-H club members

RISCO — Pins and membership certificates were presented Nov. 11 to each 4-H member who had completed this year's project requirements during the annual achievement program of Risco-New Hope 4-H Club.

The pins and certificates were presented by Mrs. Pansy Crosby, county youth assistant, during the annual achievement program of the Risco New Hope 4-H Club held in the community room of Farmers State Bank.

Sherri Eakens, club secretary, summarized the 1974 accomplishments of the group and Mrs. Crosby showed color slides of activities of the members during the year.

Nancy Cummins, club president, displayed her 4-H scrapbook which she has kept up-to-date for nine years, ad instructed the group on keeping their individual activity records for a later use on standard report forms.

Premium checks totaling $89 were presented to members for exhibits they sent to the Southeast Missouri Fair at Cape Girardeau, held in September.

The group planned their annual visit to the Bean Nursing Home near Gideon where they will present a pre-Christmas program.

Members will meet at 3:30 p.m. Dec. 18 at the home of their community leader, Mrs. Betty Cummins.

The annual club Christmas party has been scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 21 at the community room of Farmers State Bank. White elephant gifts will be exchanged.

Twenty-six members and guests attended the program.

ONE'S BETTER THAN TWO

Perfume authorities advise that one should never use two fragrances together. And we can take this one step further, according to chemists who create products that eliminate body odors. They point out that soap- and- water bathing should precede use of any deodorant.

Otherwise, when normal bacteria on the human body break down and produce odor and there's an attempt to cover it with a fragrance, the result is an unpleasant combination. Today millions of women in the U.S. are enjoying a feminine spray deodorant because of its ability to absorb odor and impart a slight fragrance.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I used to get locked out of the house a lot and it was sorta fun.

Kids would run in and out of the garage with ladders, dogs would climb on the roof and bark, neighbors would stop by with coffee and glass cutters . . . and all things considered it was often the high spot of my week.

Then one day my husband put down his paper and said, "Did you ever hear the old joke about if you want your garbage picked up, just leave it on the back seat of your car, lock the door, and it'll be stolen in five minutes?"

"That's funny!" I roared.

"It's no longer funny," he continued. "Every hour of every day is crime time. Watch your coat! Lock your car! Know your meter reader! Why I read in the paper the other day where a man had his tires stolen while he was attending a funeral. What kind of a person would do a thing like that?"

"The same kind who would steal a woman's purse off the hook of a restroom door when she is fighting a body suit and panty hose."

"Exactly," he said. "We are getting dead bolt locks on every door in this house."

"What are dead bolt locks?"

"They make you safe conscious," he said. "To lock a door from either the inside or the outside, you must have a key. We are all going to get into the habit of locking the door when we come in and locking it when we go out."

The first morning, I counted the four clicks. Now all I had to do to leave was to find my keys and unlock the door.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IT IS LIKE TO BE LOCKED IN YOUR OWN HOUSE?

I could hear sounds from the street but could not make myself heard. The ugly yellow wallpaper closed in about me. The refrigerator seemed to hum, "Clean me. Clean me." I called my husband and told him I needed him now. By noon it would be too late. He put me on hold.

My doorbell rang and my spirits quickened. Jumping up and down and trying to look through the peephole my husband had put in at his eye level (8 inches taller than my projected growth), I saw a distorted little Girl Scout about two inches tall and screamed, "Help me. I'm a prisoner in a lemon-scented house." She didn't bother to shut the gate as she ran.

Knowing the dog's capacity for control was no longer than 3:30 p.m., I finally unscrewed a storm window and crawled out the bedroom window. Sitting on the roof breathing fresh air, a neighbor yelled, "You all right?"

It's remarks like that that prompt people to get dead bolt locks.

A bee can sting only once, because its barbed stinger remains in the wound. The stingers of wasps and hornets are not barbed, enabling these insects to sting their victims repeatedly.

Seven women form homemakers club

WILSON CITY — A group of seven homemakers have formed a new club in Wilson City, according to an announcement by Mrs. Johnnie Mae Davis, coordinating assistant of the Missouri University Extension Division.

The club, formed in late August and named the Wilson City Homemakers Club, is a group of homemakers who are receiving information from the Missouri University Extension Division.

Although the group is not an extension club as yet, Mrs. Davis has arranged for the ladies to attend the training sessions with the professional extension staff in the areas of housing, resource management, and clothing.

Club members who have attended these sessions include Mrs. Catherine Coopewood, Mrs. Nona Lane, and Mrs. Earline Crawford all of Wilson City.

A recent project of the club was a Halloween Party for the youngsters of Wilson City held Oct. 31 at the Wilson City Community Building.

More than 120 children and adults attended the party. The residents of Wilson City furnished the funds.

Children at the party enjoyed various types of refreshments. There was also a costume contest with prizes, as well as games and music.

Anyone in the Wilson City or Wyatt area who wishes information on the homemakers club may contact Mrs. Davis.

On Sept. 2, 1878 the first woman employed as a telephone "operator" — Miss Emma Nutt — took over the switchboard at the Telephone Dispatch Company in Boston. Before Miss Nutt's tenure, young men served as operators but their rudeness to telephone subscribers

Dr. Lamb

Suddenly husband becomes impotent

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 56 and appears to be in good health. He is active physically and likes to hunt and fish. He is 5-foot-11 and weighs 175 pounds.

We have always had a good marriage and have two daughters and one son, all grown and away from home. Now all at once he isn't able to have sex anymore. He tries but nothing happens, no response at all. What could be the problem?

Do you suppose this means he has been having an affair with another woman? Or, does it mean he doesn't really care for me anymore? He is still loving and tries to make it up to me in other ways, but our sex life is non-existent.

I've tried to get him to see a doctor, but he says he feels fine and doesn't want to. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Impotence is a symptom not a diagnosis. Of course, he should see a doctor and find out what the symptom means.

Many men are afraid to see a doctor about any problems related to sexual function. They seem to think this is too great a shame to share with someone else. So they suffer, often needlessly, in silence. So do their wives, many voicing or thinking the thoughts you express.

I can't include all the causes of impotence here, but you can write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on impotence. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

Impotence is often psychological. It may be related to factors the person is totally unaware of. It often requires professional help to solve these problems. Sometimes the whole thing is related to self-confidence. A failure, even after an evening of too many cocktails, will be overemphasized and fear of failure takes over. When the man's confidence is restored, sometimes even with a useless medicine he has faith in, his capacity may return as if by magic.

In other instances impotence is an indication of illness. It can be a sign of unrecognized diabetes. In these problems the diabetes affects the nerves to the sexual organs and the normal mechanisms no longer work. Early control of diabetes probably helps to prevent this complication.

There are now techniques, some experimental and others fairly well accepted, where selected patients can have a flexible splint implanted which helps a great deal for impotence from nerve involvement in diabetes or after surgery. They have no place in treatment of impotence from psychological causes.

Impotence can be a symptom of circulation problems to the pelvic area. A careful examination of the circulation may demonstrate the cause. Some types of surgery in selected patients will relieve the problems.

A small number of problems are related to decreased output of male hormone. This usually involves a somewhat older man. Even so, about half of men 75 years or older are still potent, and there are medical records of men well over 100 who have remained completely potent in all respects.

Encourage your husband to see a doctor. He is not at all unusual, and he needs to find out what the problem is and get the proper help.

The case of the presidential pardon

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

In computing his income for tax purposes each year, Barry developed a system. He included his full income for only those months that had an "x" in their spelling and, for the remaining months, he cheated a little. The result? After years of government examination, he was convicted of attemped income-tax evasion.

On the day of sentencing, Barry pleaded for leniency.

"I've already suffered plenty," he told the judge. "During the years of investigation, I didn't sleep a wink. Considering that I'm a good husband, father and a skillful citizen, I'm entitled to a break."

"He's skillful all right," responded the government attorney. "For years he had us going around in circles trying to unravel his income- tax returns. That doesn't entitle him to a break. That entitles him to a jail cell."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you be lenient with skillful Barry?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! Reflecting upon President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, the judge held that the principle of equai justice required that Barry's sentence be suspended. In so holding, the judge noted that Barry was talented, gainfully employed, earnest in the discharge of his family obligations and that he had suffered terribly in the intervening years of investigation, uncertainty, legitimate efforts to avoid indictment and the tortured wait for the day of sentence.

Art work to be exhibited

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- Art work by students and faculty members is being featured in exhibits at Southeast Missouri State University during November.

On exhibition through Saturday in the Art-Home Economics Building will be portraits done by students in a workshop last summer and works in a variety of media by students in design, crafts, weaving, jewelry and ceramics classes.

Paintings by Mrs. Edda Albrecht, an award-winning Cape Girardeau artist, are also on display. Born in Wittenberg, Germany, Mrs. Albrecht studied at the Alliance Francaise in Brussels, Belgium. She attended graduate classes at Southeast Missouri State last summer.

On display through Dec. 9 will be about 25 works by various university faculty members. The exhibit, featuring a variety of styles and media, may be viewed in Kent Library.

Buddhism to be explained

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- A St. Louis lecturer will explain Nichiren Shoshu Buddhism Thursday night at Southeast Missouri State University.

Paul A. Bell, a lay leader in this particular branch of Buddhism, will appear at 7 p.m. in Rose Theatre at the Language Arts Building. The speaking engagement is sponsored by the university's cultural programs committee in cooperation with the philosophy faculty.

Nichiren Shoshu Buddhism was founded in Japan in the 13th century by a religious reformer who rejected the teachings of the established Buddhist sects.

Today, according to Dr. William D. Seidensticker, assistant professor of philosophy at Southeast Missouri State, it is an international religious movement with a growing following in the United States.

The program is free and open to the public.

People in the news

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is happy to be home again after a three-week hospitalization, staff aide Diane Sawyer says. But she describes the former president as pale and very weak,

"I haven't talked to anyone who has seen him this weekend, but I'm sure he's still spending most of the day in bed," Miss Sawyer said Sunday. "And I know he's happy to be out of the hospital and back among his own things."

Nixon, 61, was released Thursday from Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center, where he underwent surgery to prevent a blood clot in his left leg from moving to his lungs or heart. Doctors still are watching blood tests to see if Nixon is responding properly to oral anticoagulation drugs being administered for his phlebitis condition.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says the high ransom sums being demanded in the string of kidnapings in Italy "become cursed in the bandit's hands."

In an address to a Sunday crowd at St. Peter's Square, the Pope deplored what he called the "current fearful string" of such kidnapings. He noted the families affected "frequently do not have the sums asked in the iniquitous ransom."

BOSTON (AP) — Annabel Battistella has parlayed the Tidal Basin incident into a more lucrative career as a stripper.

The 38-year-old Argentinian, who police pulled out of the Tidal Basin in Washington after she jumped out of a car carrying Rep. Wilbur Mills, opens tonight at Boston's Pilgrim Theatre under her stage name, Fanne Fox.

She'll be making $3,500 a week. And she'll be billed as "The Washington Tidal Basin Bombsheil."

NEW YORK (AP) — It cost the city of New York $750,000 to protect Yasir Arafat during his stay here last week, says Mayor Abraham D. Beame.

Beame said Sunday the costs included $696,592 for salaries and overtime payments to more than 1,000 police officers. They were taken from precincts to protect the Palestine Liberation Officer leader when he was here last week to address the United Nations.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When California Gov. Ronald Reagan leaves office in January, he's returning to the career in which he started — broadcasting.

Reagan's press secretary said Sunday the 63-year-old Reagan will tape five five-minute commentaries weekly for a series called "The American Viewpoint."

Reagan, who made his name as an actor, got his start in show business in the 1930s as a radio sports announcer for station WHO in Des Moines, Iowa.

The dessert was originally the remains of a previous meal. In ancient times, dessert was brought out and was food served earlier. It was done as a way to prolong banquets.

Nude dancer proves herself as actress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What would happen if Marilyn Monroe came into the film world today?

The question was put to a Hollywood high lama — he was smoking one of those sunny cigarettes — who handed down his decision from a mountain-top:

"Today Marilyn Monroe would be denounced by Gloria Steinem for perpetuating sexual sterotypes, picketed by the gays for unfair competition and relegated to the role of serving beer to Robert Redford and Paul Newman as they planned their next caper."

Times and fashions change, and the sex symbol seems to have disappeared from the film scene.

Where does that leave a gorgeous female like Valerie Perrine? "The only parts for women in films nowadays are whores and hookers," she sighs.

Valerie is stunning enough to be a Las Vegas nude dancer. And she was. She changed careers whan an agent asked her two questions: "Have you ever acted? Do you think you can act?"

Her answers were no and yes, in that order. A meeting with director George Roy Hill brought her the role of Montana Wildhack, the sexpot movie star in the fantasy sequence of "Slaughterhouse 5."

Next she played an auto race track groupie in "The Last American Hero." She gives a remarkable performance in "Lenny" as the late comedian Lenny Bruce's stripper wife. It is the kind that seems to make an Academy nomination imperative.

Valerie Perrine is "26 or 27, somehwere around there," blonde and perfectly proportioned. She was born in Galveston, Tex., spent her early years in Japan, where her father was stationed as an Army officer. She attended convent school in Yokahama.

She studied psychology for a year at the University of Arizona, dropping out after an attack of mononucleosis. Then she decided to study a different kind of psychology, in Las Vegas.

"Living in Scottsdale, (Ariz.) was so boring," she remarked. "I had to break out of there, and Las Vegas seemed like a good change of pace. My Dad disowned me. Mother was more understanding."

"Somebody asked me that the other day — such a dumb question," She said. "How did I feel? I didn't feel anything at all. It just becomes part of the job. My own mother saw the show and said, 'you know, Valerie, there's so much happening on the stage that I didn't notice you had no clothes on."

Clothed or not, Valerie proves herself an accomplished actress in "Lenny," portraying the downward slide of girl addicted to men and dope. Her problem is what to do next.

On this date:

In 1626, St. Peter's Basilica in Rome was consecrated by Pope Urban VIII.

In 1805, 30 women met at the home of a Wiscasset, Me., woman and organized what is believed to be the first woman's club in the United States.

In 1852, more than one million people lined the streets of London to view the funeral procession of the Duke of Wellington.

In 1883, the United States adopted standard time.

In 1935, economic sanctions were imposed against Italy because of its invasion of Ethiopia.

In 1936, the Fascist governments of Germany and Italy recognized the Franco regime in Spain.

Ten years ago: The Pentagon announced plans to close 95 military bases and installations, including some naval shipyards.

Five years ago: Joseph Kennedy died at his Cape Cod home after a long illness. He was 81.

One year ago: Ten oil-producing Arab nations relaxed their petroleum cutbacks to most of Europe, but kept them for the Netherlands and the United States.

Today's birthdays. Philadelphia orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy is 75. Pollster George Gallup is 73.

Thought for today: Men are what their mothers made them — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American writer, 1803-1882.

Big Red Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sometimes a little fear can be a good thing. At least it was Sunday for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals almost buried Philadelphia quarterback Roman Gabriel in the artifical turf at Veterans Stadium as they beat the Eagles 13-3, and held on to first place in the National Football League's National Conference Eastern Division.

When it was over, St. Louis Coach Don Coryell explained that the Cardinals' success against the 13-year veteran Gabriel probably was because they were so afraid of him.

"Maybe we were frightened a little about Gabriel's potential as a passer and their outstanding receivers," Coryell said without a trace of a smile. "Maybe that made us play a little bit harder and better."

Whatever the reason, the Cardinals' defense sacked Gabriel nine times. And when they didn't catch up with him, they hurried his delivery so much that his passes were ineffective.

"It was the defense's day," said Coryell in somewhat of an understatement. "The linemen put on a tremendous rush and the linebackers played exceptionally well."

On a day when the usually explosive St. Louis offense was having troubles of its own, the defense held Philadelphia's running game to 71 yards. Gabriel managed to complete 18 of 30 passes for 170 yards, but many of them were short, harmless connections.

The battered and bruised Gabriel told it like it was.

"Lots of times in the second half I never had a chance to look up and release the ball," he said.

Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack, shattered by his team's fifth consecutive defeat and sixth against four wins, was asked if anything was wrong with Gabriel's arm.

"No, he just didn't get a chance to use it that well," McCormack responded. "I have to appologize to Gabe for the number of sacks he had."

Gabriel didn't want any apology from the coaching staff. The 215-pound quarterback put the blame where it belonged.

"If we were rushed, it's because we have not been executing what has been given us by the coaching staff," he said.

The game wasn't exactly an artistic success on offense by either team. St. Louis gained only 108 yards passing as the Eagles held the league's top passer, Jim Hart, to 10 of 23. The Cardinals did a little better rushing, getting 188 yards.

St. Louis took a 7-0 lead in the first period and never trailed in beating Philadelphia for the second time this season. Hart sneaked into the end zone from one yard out at the end of a six-play, 72-yard march. The Eagles sliced it to 7-3 in the third period on Tom Dempsey's 48-yard field goal, but Jim Bakken kicked 28 and 30-yarders for six more Cardinals' points in the final period.

Philadelphia had a chance to turn the tide in the third period when St. Louis' Terry Metcalf fumbled and the Eagles recovered at the Cardinals' 45.

Gabriel completed a 10-yard pass to Harold Carmichael, but the big wide receiver fumbled the ball back to St. Louis.

Defensive tackle Bob Rowe described his unit's performance as the best for a St. Louis front four since 1971, when it got 11 sacks against Atlanta.

Raiders hold on

POPLAR BLUFF — Coach Gene Bess began his fifth season as head coach of the Three Rivers Raiders Saturday night when his cagers opened their 1974-75 campaign at PBHS gym with a 108-104 victory over Southern Baptist of Walnut Ridge, Ark.

A late game rally by the Southerners almost spoiled the big occasion. TRCC opened up a 53-29 lead in the first half, but had to battle for their lives through the final 10 minutes of play.

TRCC goes toMeramec Tuesday night to tipoff its conference schedule and make a big for a sixth straight league title.

Fouls put the Raiders into early trouble and Southern took advantage of the situation in the second half.

Alvin Pierce and Larry Marshall scored 16 points each to lead the Raiders 11 player offensive show, which included 14 markers each by Fred Rowe and Jerry Kellum and 12 points from Troy Foots.

Southern was paced by the 18 point performances of Dewayne Armour and Wendall Smith. Brady Rapp added 16 and Terry Gibson and Tom Auston chipped in with 14 each to round out the Baptists double figure scoring.

Three Rivers' schedule features many new opponents from past seasons.

Notre Dame takes 1st

PARMA — Cape Girardeau schools walked off with the big prizes Saturday night at the conclusion of the PHS Junior Varsity basketball tournament.

Notre Dame claimed the championship with a 55-42 victory over Richland and was also awarded the event's sportsmanship trophy while cross-town rival, College High, was presented the Pep Club prize.

Bernie rallied to defeat Matthews and claim the third place prize. The Pirates were the pre-tournament favorites, but lost to the surprising Rebels in semifinal round action and then gave up a 27-19 halftime lead and dropped a 58-51 game to the Mules.

Ken Blattel pumped in 14 points to lead the Bulldogs charge to the title. Notre Dame had nine players post scoring figures in the contest. Bobby Sides netted 15 and Steve Patterson 13 for the Rebels leading efforts.

Bernie took advantage of 19 MHS fouls, turning 18 of them into points on the way to the mild upset in the consolation game. The Mules held an 18-1 advantage from the charity stripe as they were issued only seven fouls throughout the contest. Matthews out-scored the Mules 25-20 from the field.

Ken Pointer collected 21 points in leading BHS's offense that included two other players with double figures. Matthews' Bobby Sexton scored 25 for high game honors in leading the Pirates victory bid..

Chargers sweep title

CLARKTON -- Delta C-7 grabbed a 49-45 win over Senath Saturday night to capture first place in the Clarkton B-Team Tournament. Third place title went to the Holcomb Hornets when they downed Campbell 77-71.

In the championship game, the difference proved to be the shooting at the foul line. While both teams shot for 22 points from the field, Delta C-7 picked up the advantage at the line dumping in five to the Lions one.

Senath fell short of the target during first quarter play, and the chargers went ahead 14-8. But as time wore on, the Senath players began to find their aim, doubling their first quarter points during the second period. However, their effort stopped short of their mark, as the Chargers remained consistent to take a 28-24 lead into the locker room.

Offensive play was slowed somewhat after the half and by the end of the third quarter both teams had hit for eight markers each. The final period showed much the same. The score seesawed, but the Lions could not slip by Delta C-7 and had to settle for second place.

George Riley and Alex Rose shared top scoring honors for the winning team, both dumping in 15 points. High scorer for Senath was Kitchens with 14.

Holcomb pulled off a hot fourth quarter rally to topple the Camels to take third place win in the tourney. Campbell took the lead early in the game holding a four point edge. Holcomb kept pace with the Camels as both teams marked up 20 points during the second quarter and the Hornets left the half, leading from their first quarter soering, 38-34.

It was a battle during the third period as the Honrets tried to move in on Campbell. Their efforts gained them only a single point.

The final quarter told the story as Campbell's defensive tactics could not hold up as Holcomb burned the nets for 25 points to the Camels' 16.

Lyndel Burr had a big night for the Hornets, hitting for 36 markers, over half of Holcomb's final score. Mike Scott backed him up with 22 points. High man for the Camels was Art York who earned 23 points to his credit with Terry Parrent following with 18.

Memphis host World Bowl

Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS (AP) — Team owners and potential franchise investors in the financially troubled World Football League, their ranks torn by confusion over the World Bowl playoffs, will hold a crucial summit conference in Memphis later this week.

"Essentially, the purpose of the meetings will be to structure the league for 1975," said John F. Bassett, principal owner of the Memphis Southmen and chairman of the WFL's executive committee. Bassett said franchise holders will meet Friday and prospective owners will meet Saturday.

"It (the league) is going to be run by responsible business and football people," vowed the Canadian millioniare, who says he has invested $600,000 of his money to prevent the collapse of weaker WFL teams.

He said potential franchise buyers will come from San Antonio, Louisville, Jacksonville, Tulsa, Portland (Ore.), Charlotte, N.C., Chicago and possibly Montreal and Toronto.

Confirmation of the summit meeting by WFL officials followed a weekend of conflicting statements and acrimonious debate over the number of teams eligible for the WFL playoffs. A conference call between owners and league officials Sunday seemed to settle the the controversy, with six playoff teams being decided upon.

The latest plan calls for the Western Division champion Southern California Sun, 13-7, to host the Hawaiians, 9-11, Wednesday night and the Eastern Division champion Florida Blazers, 14-6, to host the Philadelphia Bell, 9-11, Thursday night.

The Central Division champion Memphis Southmen, 17-3, and the Birmingham Americans, 15-5, will have byes.

Birmingham will play the Sun-Hawaiian winner on Nov. 27 at an as yet unannounced location. Memphis will play the winner of the Florida-Philadelphia game at Memphis on Nov. 29 on national television.

Terry Lee, a spokesman for the Memphis team, said if the Southmen qualify, the World Bowl will be held at Memphis on Dec. 5.

The playoffs were originally to have included four teams. Then, last week, WFL officials said eight teams were to take part in the playoffs.

Saturday, Bassett and WFL executive director Don Regan made the surprise announcement that the playoff format had been changed and only three teams would participate. Several owners, angry that their teams had been excluded, issued counter-statements and asked for an emergency conference call. During the c nference, Bassett and Regan were overruled and the six-team playoff format was substituted.

Inflation? You ain't seen nothing yet

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Ford and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns have finally done it. They've tightened the cinches so tightly that capital goods orders — the last prop for the economy and the one hope for easing shortages and putting a damper on prices — appear to be in for a setback. It is clear we are in a recession likely to get considerably worse before it gets better.

Some of Mr. Ford's advisers are known to believe that a recession is preferrable to inflation. But the policy they are promoting, it appears, will give us the worst of both worlds.

Economists predict 7 per cent unemployment and a rough row to hoe for most of us in the months just ahead. The situation is expected to be so bad by January that pressure will be great for Congress to vote major sums for emergency public service jobs, extended unemployment payments and for a variety of programs aimed at providing jobs and getting housing and other lagging industries going again.

If analysts have the election winners pegged correctly, the Congress which takes office in January will have more men and women sold on the necessity of heavier domestic government spending and even more leery of tax boosts and cuts in the federal budget. But whether they are big-government spenders or cut-the-spending conservatives by nature, the temptation to spend us out of the recession will be great indeed.

Though the worsening recession will likely pull inflation down a few percentage points, the relief will not be great and probably will not last for long if my economist contacts are correct.

The expected slug of congressional spending bills — a shattering $310 billion budget and a stagerring deficit — all calculated to get the country moving, will most assuredly drive inflation up again as industry competes for the scarce materials needed to meet rising demand.

Because of the tight reins Messrs. Ford, Nixon and Burns have put on the economy these past months, the shortages will be greater and the inflationary pressures thus more compelling than if the producers and processors of the basic raw materials and components had been permitted to expand as they had planned.

The renewed vigor of this inflation will bring strong pressure in the Senate and House of Representatives for price controls. Of course, past experience would seem to indicate controls work only for short periods and are accompanied by distortions in production which drive prices to even greater heights when the controls are lifted.

An inflation caused by scarcities can be cured in the long run only by upping production in key industries and on the farms. But controls, if successful, usually hold down production in the essentials and encourage increased output of offbeat and specialty items, where profit margins are greater. Shortages are thereby intensified and the upward pressure on prices increased.

Recessions mercifully have a way of curing themselves eventually — though sometimes at terrible cost, a cost sometimes magnified by the curious solutions governments sometimes attempt. The possibility seen by some economists here is that the tide will turn before the end of 1975. That recovery, when it comes, will be accompanied by a resurgent inflation greater than we have today. In fact, there are men in the economic community who are convinced we are not likely in this decade to see inflation drop below 5 to 6 per cent a year at best.

Turkey had no alternative

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. O. R. Turkkan of New York City, former psychology instructor at Columbia University in New York City and author of "One America," spoke at high schools in the Bootheel following a tour last summer in Cyprus. He was in Cyprus when the conflict broke out between the Greeks and Turks. While visiting in Sikeston, he wrote this article which gives his impressions of the situation. Dr. Turkkan is now leaving for the Mid-East and will report on his visit there in a future article.)

by DR. O. R. TURKKAN

I was in Turkey when the Cyprus "war" exploded. Now, as I'm touring parts of the United States lecturing (not on "Cyprus", but on pollution problems in the United States), I'm often asked about the Cyprus problem.

"Well," I start, scratcing my head, "it's difficult not to sound biased. Turkey had no other alternative after the July coup of the Greek extremists but to land forces in Cyprus. Turkey was one of the three guarantors of the Cyprus Republic's independent status; the coup that toppled President Makarios was led by the fanatic Greek leader Sampson, bent on dissolving the republic and uniting the island with Greece. Turkey, by treaty agreement, had the right to interfere."

That's an easy beginning. It gets harder when you look at what happened afterwards. In July, nearly everyone admitted Turkey's right. After a three-day war, Turkish troops had occupied a couple of towns in Northern Cyprus and the "Enosis" leader Sampson had resigned. The Greek dictatorship in Athens had also collapsed and a civilian government had come to power. The United Nations then called on Turkey to stop the military action and to sit down for talks with the new Greek and Cypiot governments (Great Britain, the third guarantor, was to be there, also; the Soviet Union, not a party by any stretch of the imagination, kept insisting that she should also participate in the peace talks. The "socialist" Turkish Prime Minister Ecevit gave Moscow a diplomatic rebuff.)

When Turkish government accepted a conditional truce, there was a big disappointment in Turkey. To understand the feeling, one had to witness the incredible explosion of joy and excitement among Turks when the war had started.

Bickering political parties buried their hatchet; the press, fiercely independent, began to talk with one voice; volunteers crowded draft offices, and a cab driver told me that for years he was a draft evader but that very morning he had reported to his draft center asking to be sent to Cyprus.

Why such zeal and excitement?

For one thing, Turks feel bitter about losing the Aegean islands and Cyprus, which was Turkish for over four centuries. They had turned over Cyprus to the custody of Britain to get her help against the Russians in 1876. Cyprus then had a majority of Turkish population.

When Britain gobbled up the island for good during World War I, Turkey was in no position to stop her. Many Turks in Cyprus chose to migrate and the Turkish percentage in the island dwindled to about 18 per cent, through 30 per cent of the land still belonged to them.

Then came 1960, with Great Britain bowing out -- except for a base in southern Cyprus. Turkey and Greece both claimed the island and war was averted by a 1960 treaty that gave birth to an independent Cyprus Republic.

However, Turkey put a condition on agreeing to this birth: the Turkish minority in the new republic would have equal rights and their rights would be protected by three guarantor states -- Turkey, Greece and Great Britain. There would be no union with Greece and no union with Turkey.

Turks claim that the Greek president of the Republic of Cyprus, Archibishop Markarios, violated this agreement before even the ink was dry. Turks were given shadow titles in government and had no voice whatsoever.

In 1964, a dark day Turks don't forget, the Greeks launched an island-wide massacre of the Turkish population, and grisly photographs of a Turkish mother and her three children killed in a bathtub appeared in all Turkish newspapers. There was a big revulson in Turkey, and the government loaded troops on carriers to land in Cyprus to protect the Turkish population.

It is then that President Lyndon Johnson, alarmed at the possibility of war between two United States NATO allies -- Turkey and Greece -- sent a strong letter to Premier Inonu of Turkey. This confidential letter leaked to the press and triggered instant anti-American feelings in Turkey--amazing, because until then Turks were the staunchest friends of America and the first to send troops to Korea.

The Johnson letter threatened the use of the Sixth Fleet if Ankara went ahead with her invasion. Frustrated, Turkey stopped cold, but hot with resentment and worry about the fate of their ethnic brothers on the island.

In 1967, there was another Greek provocation, and this time the Turkish air force attacked Cyprus, only to be stopped again before it could get results.

Just before this last Cyprus crisis, the Greek junta in Athens managed to stir Turkish anger again. The junta leaders proclaimed the Aegean Sea wholly Greek waters and wanted Turks to stay away from offshore oil explorations in the area.

It so happens that Turkey has many islands of her own in the Aegean, with the coastal seabeds of Anatolia extending over the disputed area; so Ankara immediately armed a survey vessel and sent it to the Aegean under the protection of a warship.

During that crisis, I was in Istanbul and I happened to listen to a seminar conducted by many professors of the political science school at Ankara.

One of them, whose former students now occupy top positions in the Turkish foreign service, made a speech remarking that Greece, since her birth in the 19th century, had always expanded at the expense of Turkey. He also reminded how Greeks had invaded Turkey during the early 1920s and tried to grab Turkish lands -- until they were defeated by Ataturk.

The professor's point was that Cyprus and the Aegean crisis were only excuses. His advice was that the time had come for Turkey to slap down Greece's ambitions once and for all.

It was only a few weeks after this meeting that the Greeks in Cyprus committed the suicidal foolishness of the coup, with all the blessing of the Greek junta in Athens. That's why, when Turkey acted, everyone agreed there was no other alternative. And that's why, when Turkey stopped short of carrying out its objectives, there was a big outcry of disappointment all over the land.

Greeks again made a mistake and turned down or procrastinated every proposal made by the Turkish delegation at the truce conference. The blunt Turkish foreign minister, Dr. Turan Gunes, gave them an ultimatum and at the end of the deadline. Turkish troops moved again in Cyprus, accusations flew thick and furious around the conferenc e tables. Why didn't the Turks show more patience in negotiating a settlement? Why these short notices and truculence?

Other nations -- most of the Arab countries and West Germany -- sided with the Turks. Ankara accused France of taking sides because of Paris's deal with Athens to sell 50 Mirage jets. Superman Henry Kissinger made noises that ever one interpreted the way they liked, but it was clear that Washington was not to repeat former President Johnson's performance and interference.'

That enraged the Greeks and now it was their turn to hate the Americans. A bunch of wild Greek terrorist in Cyprus attacked the U. S. embassy and killed the ambassador.

Turks reported disccovering mass graves of massacred civilian Turkish population, but Greeks tried first to discredit the find, then came out with an almost exact story of their own. And now,Congress is trying to stop all aid to Turkey against the government's warnings.

While that was going on, the Turkish armed forces occupied one-third of the island, pulled many of the Turkish population in the "Turkish zone" and, finally, minding United Nations appeals, stopped.
